IN THE BEE TO-DAY

WEATHER.

The local forecast for to-day is slightly colder, with flurries of snow. For Sunday, colder in the early morning, warmer in the evening, fair weather.

The storm central over Lake Superior yesterday is now over New England and the upper St. Lawrence. A zero temperature following this storm caused snowfall in its path. Another "low" or storm is developing in the Canadian northwest which will produce warmer weather here Sunday afternoon. It has not sufficiently developed to enable one to say anything as to its progress or intensity, but it is probable that its influence will be felt in Toledo Monday.

The clearing area in the southwest is advancing northeastward; Sunday will be a fair and pleasant day. Fair and spring-like weather prevails throughout the country except among the lower lakes, where it is snowing. The lowest temperature in the United States to-day is zero at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; the highest is 48 degrees at New Orleans. The temperature in the west and northwest continues to rise. It ranges this morning from 22 to 40 degrees above. It is still rising in the lower lakes, but will fall Sunday morning. The highest temperature in Toledo yesterday was 37 degrees; the lowest this morning was 29 degrees.

Japanese Commissioners to the Fair.

They Come Over to Prepare for the Expenditure of Six Hundred and Thirty Thousand Yen.

San Francisco, Jan. 23.—The world's fair commissioners appointed by the Japanese government, Y. Yumbo and S. Tegima, of Tokio, have just arrived here and will leave for Chicago in a few days to secure space for the erection of their national building in Jackson park.

The commissioners say: "At the last session of our parliament, 630,000 yen, equal to $500,000, was appropriated for an exhibit at the Columbian exposition. Of this amount $100,000 will be applied to the erection of buildings.

The plans are not yet prepared, but the structure will be built in the style of 1,000 years ago.

The interior will be devoted to a collection of Japanest fine arts and curiosities, representing three different epochs in our history, one 900 years ago, the second 400 years back and the third showing features of the last half century.

"Each period marks a different dynasty and the display will be a sort of historical panorama. A bazaar will also be provided for general exhibits.

"A great deal of interest in the world's fair is manifested in Japan. No one opposed the participation in the exposition. The national exhibit will be much finer than that sent to the centennial in 1876. All of the Japanese products will be exhibited in competitive departments. Special features will be made of different kinds of silk and all varieties of tea. The fine arts will also be well provided for."

THE RAILS SPREAD.

A Rock Island Train in the Ditch.

Fire Broke Out and Eight Coaches Were Entirely Consumed—The Injured.

Blue Island, Ill., Jan. 23.—Rock Island passenger train No. 3, which leaves Chicago at 10:30 p. m., was ditched at a point near this place at about 11:15 last night. Fire broke out almost immediately after the eight coaches careened, and completed the destruction which a "spread" rail did not finish.

So far as could be learned only four passengers were badly injured but there were several passengers unaccounted for when faces were counted after the terrible experience. The injured on the first count were: Mrs. Ray, wife of the president of the Blue Island bank, arm broken and otherwise injured.

Mrs. Caroline Raumbead, 5214 Morgan street, Chicago, cut and bruised on the head.

Fecate, baggageman, hand smashed and otherwise injured.

George P. Huntington, Huntington, Quebec, (sister's address No. 1134 Dorchester street, Montreal); skull fractured; will probably die.

CALL EGAN HOME.

Such is the Demand of the Chileans.

A Crisis Soon to be Reached in Affairs.

Minister Montt Ignored in the Negotiations.

Monday's Message May be Startling.

No Cessation in the Warlike Preparations of Both Countries—The Situation Is More Serious Than at Any Time Yet.

Washington, Jan. 23.—(Special)—The question of peace or war trembles in the balance, and a settlement will almost certainly come within three days. It is generally believed now among the best informed that Chile will make the United States a decisive answer very shortly. Of course, the character of that decision cannot be foretold, but, if it be in the form of an apology and an announcement of a desire to make reparation, both must be entirely satisfactory to the administration, or preparations for war will not be discontinued in this country.

A cabinet minister discussed the situation and gave what he believed to be Chile's reasons for delay. He said that the party in power there was obliged to move slowly, in order not to antagonize their opponents, and had been obliged to consider three points.

These were the demands for protection made by the refugees, Matta's offensive note and the assault upon the Baltimore's sailors. The first had been settled, not to the entire satisfaction of any one, but in such a way that Montt's opponents cannot find a great deal of fault.

Next comes the Matta note, which has not yet been withdrawn in the manner insisted upon by Mr. Blaine. "But I believe that it will be," said the minister, "directly that the government can do it without further antagonizing Matta, who is a power, notwithstanding that he is out of office.

"When it comes to the Baltimore trouble we know that a section of violent congressionalists is bitterly opposed to the slightest concession, and it is the Baltimore trouble that will cause war if anything does."

Unless there are some new developments in the situation before Monday the correspondence will in all probability be sent in on that day. It has all been prepared for transmission to congress and can be sent at the president's pleasure.

Today it is announced that an ultimatum has been sent to the Chilean government.

It was not communicated to the government of Chile through Senor Montt, the Chilean minister here. The latter has no knowledge of it except that he may have been advised by cable from his own government.

The dispatch was of a peremptory character. It directed Mr. Egan to demand categorically of the Chilean government an immediate answer to the request which has already been made. The purpose of it is to inform the Chilean government that the United States must have an answer at once to its demand for reparation and apology.

The dispatch, which was sent by the order of the president, with the approval of the cabinet, leaves no chance for any one to doubt what the policy of the administration will be.

The American people will not be compelled to wait long to know what the American side of the controversy is. A vast amount of correspondence, said to comprise 160,000 words, possibly 30 columns of the ordinary newspaper, will be sent to congress on Monday, but it will not be necessary for the papers to print, or for the people to read, any of the correspondence to ascertain what the situation is or what the policy of the government is. That can be learned from the message of President Harrison, which will not be more than three columns in length of an ordinary newspaper. That message contains, compactly stated, the entire American case.

The reading of it will give all the information needed to any American to determine exactly what has happened in Chile, or what the attitude of the administration has been, and what the recommendation of President Harrison to congress of the United States is.

The latest suggestions of the Chilean government is that there shall be longer delay, a delay which is estimated might be equivalent to six months, in which time the Captain Pratt would be ready for fighting.

The president will not delay six months or six weeks. He has delayed three months. That is two months and a half more, in the opinion of some of his constitutional advisors, than it was wise to have waited. There will be no more delay.

Minister Montt, when he discovers that he has been ignored in the critical negotiations of the last few hours, may deem it expedient to demand his passports. Such a result is not unexpected from him by the cabinet. The passports, if demanded, would be granted.

Unless the president and his cabinet are very much mistaken, the events of the next few hours will determine whether or not there is to be peace or war between the United States and Chile.

SAILED FOR THE STRAITS.

Admiral Walker Has Departed for Valparaiso.

New York, Jan. 23.—The Herald's Montevideo dispatch says that Admiral Walker, with his flagship, the cruiser Chicago, accompanied by the cruiser Atlantic and the gunboat Bennington, sailed yesterday for Valparaiso.

PRESSED INTO SERVICE.

The Big Ohio To Be Used as a Coal Transport.

Philadelphia, Jan. 23.—Shipping circles in this city were stirred up to-day over a report that the government had impressed the American line steamship Ohio, to be used in case of war. The report was strengthened by the fact that orders were given not to take aboard the cargo for the vessel that was lying on the dock and that instead coal was being rapidly put in.

The officers of the steamship company admitted that the Ohio had been taken off her regular trip between this port and Liverpool, but they declined to say for what purpose she was to be used. They were careful, however, to say that she had not been chartered by the government. From another reliable source it was learned that without doubt the government has exercised its right to take possession of any merchant vessel sailing under the national flag for its own use when war or the possibility of war demands it, and under this law has impressed the Ohio. It was also learned from that source that the Ohio will take aboard 400 tons of coal as ballast, and on Monday or Tuesday next proceed to New York. There she will lie until the present difficulty with Chile has been arranged satisfactorily or war is declared.

A CRISIS REACHED.

Minister Montt May Ask for His Passports.

New York, Jan. 23.—The Recorder's Washington special says: The administration awaits a report from Minister Egan as to the intention of the Chilean government.

The minister has been instructed to call upon the cabinet at Santiago for an immediate categorical answer to the question whether Chile has any intention of making a favorable response to the demands of the United States, either now or at some future time. The answer to the demand is expected hourly.

Dispatches have come from Minister Egan but none of them has conveyed any information of a nature to change the conditions of the controversy. A definite declaration of the Chilean government that, if given time to allay feeling at home, it will withdraw the offensive Matta note, and will make an apology to the United States for the Valparaiso outrage, will be accepted by our government in good faith, and every opportunity will be afforded the distracted republic to make good its pledges.

A refusal to answer Egan's request one way or another will have but one meaning.

In sending to Minister Egan its demand for a categorical answer from Chile the administration has deliberately ignored the presence of Minister Montt as the representative of the Santiago government.

The question is one of so much delicacy and the answer of the Chilean government will be so momentous in its consequences that President Harrison has thought it wise to not complicate the situation by bringing the Chilean representative into the negotiations.

The situation is more critical than at any period of the controversy.

The cabinet would not be surprised if Minister Montt, finding himself set aside in the negotiations, should conclude to withdraw from the country.

The action of the administration was taken with this possibility fully in view.

The time for diplomatic subterfuges has passed, and there will be no more delay for any cause unless the Chilean government states definitely, and at once, its intention to satisfy fully the demands of the United States.

It is known that President Montt is harrassed by factions and is being hounded by discontented politicians. The strength of the congressionalists lies entirely in the large cities like Valparaiso and Santiago. The country districts are loyal to Balmaceda and would welcome an opportunity to incite a revolt and President Harrison has been ready from the beginning to make allowances for these conditions, if the Santiago government would intimate in the most private way possible, that internal dissensions were entirely responsible for the delay, but no such intimation has been received at any stage.

WORK ON THE MONITORS.

Miantonomoh and Nantucket To Be Pushed to Completion.

New York, Jan. 23.—Orders have been received at the navy yard from the assistant secretary of the navy in regard to the work being done on the Miantonomoh. Mr. Soley stated that all work on the monitor must be completed by Jan. 31, and that if it is necessary the navy yard force may be worked overtime.

The activity on the old monitor Nantucket continues. Yesterday fires were started under her boilers to try them. Officials said that the boilers were in very good condition. The Miantonomoh yesterday commenced to take on her ammunition for a cruise and will only have to coal before leaving the yard. No definite sailing orders have yet been received, but Capt. Sicard is in telegraphic communication with the navy department, and doubtless knows his destination.

The naval steamer Fortune from the torpedo station at Newport left the yard yesterday for Perth Amboy, where her cargo of gun cotton will be shipped by rail to San Francisco, where it will be used in the torpedo defenses of that port.

The Civil Engineers' association, in session in this city, visited the navy yard yesterday and inspected the new cruisers being constructed there.

A CHILEAN CRISIS.

The Montt Government in Danger of Being Overthrown.

Boston, Jan. 23.—Mr. A. Maurice Low telegraphs from Washington to the Globe that startling news reached the president yesterday from Santiago that a cabinet crisis was impending, and that the Montt government was in danger of overthrow.

THE MESSAGE ON MONDAY.

President Harrison Will Write Four Thousand Words on the Subject.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The cabinet meeting yesterday was brief, owing to Justice Bradley's death.

It is understood that President Harrison read the draft of his message on the Chilean matter, and that it will go to congress Monday. It has been delayed by waiting for the testimony taken at San Francisco.

The message will contain 4,000 to 5,000 words.

Secretary Blaine attended the cabinet meeting, but did not visit the state department.

TERRORITE.

The United States Government is Experimenting With a New Explosive.

San Francisco, Jan. 23.—Experiments are being made at the Presidio military reservation with terrorite, the new explosive. Four shells filled with the liquid, resembling red ink, were fired from a Parrott rifle.

The shells, which were of the old-fashioned Parrott form, with a fuse at the head, were supplied with a detonator, also the patent of the inventor of the explosive.

Considerable havoc was made with the opposing bluff, three of the four shells reaching a mark 1,700 yards distant. A number of military officers witnessed the test.

HAVE TAKEN A STAND.

The Chilean Government Asks for Egan's Recall.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The recall of Minister Egan, the rumor of which was mentioned in these dispatches yesterday, was formally requested of Secretary Blaine last night by Minister Montt at the head of the Chilean legation in this city.

It is said that the Chilean government base their request for the recall of Mr. Egan upon the allegations that the American minister has been guilty of making reports to Washington that were deliberately false and of engaging in intrigues for the purpose of creating trouble between the United States and Chile.

"The publication of the correspondence with Chile," said a gentleman who is acquainted with it, "will conclusively disprove the assertions of the Chilean government. Mr. Egan has kept this government fully advised of the progress of events in Chile since his arrival, but he has done so without partisan bias.

"The members of the United States government who are familiar with his conduct fully approve it, and President Harrison and Secretary Blaine are fully in accord in the estimation with which Mr. Egan is held."

This action on the part of the Chilean government, which is the first official indication of their dissatisfaction with Minister Egan, will have a tendency to precipitate a crisis in the relations of the two countries

It is taken in official circles to indicate that Chile does not intend to make reparation or apology for the Baltimore incident unless it can attach conditions which will preserve the pride of the government of that country and enable it to retain the respect and support of the people who would resent an unqualified apology.

In accordance with the rule of diplomacy, Minister Egan may be recalled from Santiago; but it would not indicate in the least any reflection upon his course by this government. He will come home, it is said, if he comes, only because his attitude as Minister of the United States at Santiago has been so loyal and aggressive that it has incensed the interests at that court antagonistic to those of this country, which were sufficiently powerful to influence the government there to ask his removal.

Advices from Santiago show that the American residents in Chile are in sympathy with Mr. Egan, and that other foreign residents wonder how the United States can continue friendly relations with a government, the minister of which holds such adverse sentiments as those which have been expressed there.

Another reason which it is said was alleged for asking for Egan's recall, was the note sent to the Chilean government by Egan on October 26, which Senor Matta designated as aggressive in design and violent in language.

This was the first official notice taken by Egan of the Baltimore affair, and it was prepared by express instructions of Assistant Secretary Wharton under date of October 23.

This letter of instructions was the one generally attributed to President Harrison, and Mr. Egan's note to Senor Matta was an almost exact reproduction of the terms employed in it. This incident, under the conditions prevailing, comes perilously near a suspension of communication between the two countries, and developments of the next day or two will be awaited with much interest.

BLAINE AND HARRISON.

Regardless of Contradictory Statements They are Still Pulling Apart.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Some surprise is expressed that the president will make no recommendations in his forthcoming message. The reason is said to be that as Germany and England are both trying to induce Chile to apologize it would be in bad taste for any suggestions to be made until these friendly offices have either succeeded or failed.

The relaxation of the warlike tone is solely due to the belief that England's advice will have great weight with Chile, and will go farther toward bringing about an understanding than the mediation of any other nation.

The demand for a reply, and that speedily, from Chile is still being urged. The sending of the message and documents to congress, in the opinion of the most experienced foreign ministers here, will hasten Chile's conclusions.

As a telegram was received from Admiral Walker to-day, at Montevideo, it is evident that that officer deemed it wisest to await the arrival of his superior officer, Rear-Admiral Gherardi.

It is no longer a secret, though the president would like to have it so, that the cabinet is seriously divided upon this Chilean question. Rusk, Elkins, Miller and Noble go with the president through thick and thin. Foster, Tracy and Wanamaker are not so extreme in their views.

"We must make our name respected, no matter whether the nation insulting us is weak or strong," Secretary Tracy says. "We can't permit our citizens to be brutally murdered, even if the nation doing it has but 2,000,000 people. But let us honestly exhaust all our expedients for a peaceful settlement before we go to war. It's my business to have that part of the machinery of the government for which I am responsible ready for use if it is wanted."

This is about the view taken by the majority of democrats: No fight unless it simply can not be helped.

As for Mr. Blaine's position, as he has never defined it it can not be very well stated. The events of the last ten days have greatly increased the tension between Mr. Harrison and his chief of state. Mr. Harrison sincerely believes he has been trying to take all the glory, in case the Chilean affair be peacefully settled, to himself. Mr. Blaine's friends were premature and "to previous" in asserting that matters were about adjusted, and it was another triumph for American diplomacy when Minister Montt told Mr. Blaine that Matta's letter would be withdrawn.

Mr. Harrison has been greatly disposed to take the entire matter out of Mr. Blaine's hands and manage it himself. He always makes a mess of it when he does this. He tried it last fall when the refunding qestion was sur le tapis, and kept Foster from doing better than he did.

Mr. Blaine bitterly resents all this. He believes the president has deliberately attempted to seriously injure him before the country, substantially throwing doubts upon his patriotism, and trying to make it appear that Mr. Blaine was absolutely trading upon the nation's honor. It is a peculiar incident that has embittered the two men against one another. Their followers are taking up the fight and it will grow until the national convention settles who is to run this year.

WILL CALL HIM HOME.

Harrison Will Ask Mr. Egan To Take A Vacation.

Washington, Jan. 23.—(Special)—From a gentleman close to the president the Bee learned this morning that Minister Montt has absolutely asked the recall of Patrick Egan and he further says that his recall will be made in a few days, and that the disappearance of Egan from Chile will put a stop to war talk and settle the dispute.

Egan seems to be the disturbing factor in Chile.

ON HIS WAY EAST.

San Francisco, Jan. 23.—Capt W. S. Schley, commanding officer of the curiser Baltimore, has left for Washington under orders to consult with Secretary Tracy.

Women Pray for Peace.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Mrs. H. J. Bailey, superintendent of peace and arbitration, World's and National Woman's Christian Temperance unions, and Mrs. S. de la Fela, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the District of Columbia, were introduced to the president yesterday morning and presented to him a memorial signed by 500,000 women of America and other countries praying for a peaceful solution of the Chilean controversy.

WHEAT THIEVES.

Wapakoneta, O., Jan. 23.—(Special)—In the common pleas court here to-day Judge Day sentenced Hi Baker and Tom Doty, wheat thieves, to eighteen months and four years respectively in the penitentiary.

BOND WITHDRAWN.

Wauseon, O., Jan. 23.—(Special)—The bondsmen of George Durbin, arrested for incest, on a warrant sworn out by his 15-year-old niece, have surrendered him.

GIRLS DID NOT ESCAPE.

London, Jan. 23.—Influenza has appeared among the girl students of Girton college, Cambridge. The complaint, although happily not virulent, has had the effect of prostrating half of the young women in the college.

A KEELEY INSTITUTE.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 23.—Dr. R. M. Griswold, of Portland, Conn., purchased a mansion at Savin Rock, yesterday, for a Keeley institute. He will prepare it for use immediately.

BLAZE IN THE PALACE

Of the Duke of Arenburg This Morning.

The Costly Mansion a Mass of Ruins.

The Prince and Princess Had a Narrow Escape and Made Their Way Out in Their Night Clothes.

Brussels, Jan. 23.—Fire broke out in the palace of the duke of Arenburg this morning about 3 o'clock. The fire spread with such rapidity that it was with difficulty that the prince and princess De Croy D'Arenburg, and their children, escaped from the burning palace.

As it was, the princely family made their escape from the building in their night dresses.

The servants were compelled to make an equally hurried departure from the rooms they occupied and reached the open air in their night clothes alone, thus presenting strange pictures as they shivered in the early morning wind and watched the flames playing sad havoc with the palace.

The men servants did their utmost to save some of the historical relics of the Arenburg estate, but their efforts did not meet with much success, owing to the fact that the right wing of the palace, the portion first attacked by the fire, was a mass of flames within four or five minutes after the first alarm had been given.

The fire is supposed to have originated in or near a room used for the storage of [illegible] and varnishes in the right wing of the [illegible] and before it was under control [illegible] very large number of the most precious and valuable of the Arenburg historical relics, some of them dating back to the year 1100, were consumed.

Among the relics destroyed were a number of most valuable oil paintings, while others were so scorched, injured by water or otherwise damaged that they may be said to have lost nearly all value.

While a number of firemen were fighting the flames from a fire escape outside the left wing of the palace, having dragged a heavy hose up that structure, in addition to overloading it with men, the fire escape suddenly collapsed at 7 o'clock, throwing several firemen into the flames. One of these unfortunate men was burned to death and several were so badly injured that their lives are despaired of.

Though the firemen worked with great bravery and zeal, by 9 o'clock it was acknowledged that they would not be able to master the flames.

The outside walls of the palace and some portions of the left wing are still standing but the Arenburg palace itself may be said to have been swept off the earth by the conflagration of to-day.

ALLIANCE TROUBLES.

The Members Cannot Pull Together.

Simpson Is for a Third Party While Livingstone Is Decidedly Opposed to One.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The adherents of the alliance party are not in the most harmonious frame of mind. Numerous futile conferences have been held, but at the meeting on Wednesday night the climax was reached.

Invitations had been sent out to the friends of reform in the existing financial methods, and in response to the invitation about 25 gentlemen attended.

The object of the call was to devise some method by which the ranks of the alliance could be solidified and perfect harmony restored. The subject of financial reform was discussed in a general way, and a friendly feeling was manifested, when all the good that had been accomplished was nullified by a speech by Mr. Jerry Simpson.

It is claimed that Mr. Simpson started into a political discussion, in which he asserted that no good could be expected from either party; that neither democrats nor republicans could be depended upon to do what the people expected in money matters, and the only proper way to pursue the reform was through the agency of the third party.

To this Mr. Livingstone made a vigorous protest. He said that a conciliatory course toward the democrats would accomplish more than could anything in the way of a strictly third party movement. He believed that financial reform was necessary, and that there were democrats and republicans who believed the same thing, but it could not be accomplished in the way Mr. Simpson proposed.

SHAEFER WON THE MATCH.

Splendid Game of Billiards Last Night.

Slosson Defeated by the Wizard and the Winner Immediately Challenged by Ives.

New York, Jan. 23.—It was a representative audience that filled Lenox lyceum in this city last night and watched "Wizard" Schaefer and "Student" Slosson cross cues for the championship of the billiard world. For the twenty-third time Messrs. Schaefer and Slosson were to meet. Each was confident of victory and much money changed hands as the battle waged. Schaefer held the championship and Slosson wanted it. The match was for a cup, a stake of $1,000 a side and the net receipts of the house. The game was 14-inch balk line, 800 points up. The referee was Pincus Levy, of Philadelphia. The results follow, the winner being challenged by Ives. Innings:

Schaefer—0, 0, 27, 3, 33, 3, 0, 6, 28, 5, 73, 0, 9, 14, 155, 9, 0, 51, 20, 103, 23, 40, 0, 56, 68, 11, 6, 14, 2, 2, 25, 5, 2, 9—800.

Slosson—2, 5, 32, 18, 37, 2, 0, 6, 65, 0, 18, 1, 0, 5, 43, 22, 2, 28, 24, 10, 7, 3, 9, 58, 0, 119, 0, 3, 1, 0, 27, 21, 20, 0—592.

Highest run, Schaefer, 155; Slosson, 119. Average, Schaefer, 22.85 5-7; Slosson, 17.41 3-17. Time of game, 3 hours, 40 minutes.

POSTING UP THE BOOKS.

Democrats Want to Know Where They Stand.

A Bad Outlook for Friends of Extravagant Schemes.

By Close Figuring the Government Can Pay All Its Debts the Coming Year and Possibly Have a Little Surplus.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The ways and means committee held a special meeting this morning to hear Assistant Secretary Spaulding, of the treasury department, who appeared by request to inform the committee concerning the financial condition of the government.

Chairman Springer, in calling the meeting to order, said that Assistant Secretary Spaulding appeared in place of Secretary Foster, who was ill. The assistant secretary said he had prepared a statement giving the receipts for the first half of the fiscal year and also for 20 days in January.

In order to present figures for comparison he first gave the receipts for 1890. The customs receipts for the first six months ending December 31, 1889 were $109,629,000 and for the 20 days in January, 1890, $13,613,000; total for the six months and 20 days, $123,242,000, and the total for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, was $229,668,000.

The internal revenue receipts for the first six months ending December 31, 1889, were $68,521,000 and for the 20 days in January, 1890, $6,251,000, a total for the six months and 20 days, $74,772,000; total for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, were $142,606,000.

The miscellaneous receipts for the six months ending December 31, 1889, were $14,747,000 and for the 20 days in January, 1890, $1,892,000, making a total for the six months and 20 days, $16,639,000, and for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, $30,805,000.

Total for the fiscal year 1890, $30,805,000 compared with total estimated for current fiscal year, $25,000,000.

The receipts for customs and internal revenue for the corresponding period of 1892 was then given.

For the six months ending December 31, 1891, the customs receipts were $85,572,000, and for the 20 days in January, 1892, $11,996,000, making a total for the six months and 20 days of $97,718,000.

The internal revenue receipts for the six months ending December 31, 1891, were $77,057,000 and for the first 20 days in January, 1892, $7,508,000; total for the six months and 20 days, $84,565,000, and total for the year 1892 as estimated, $152,000,000; the miscellaneous receipts for the above period were $12,697,000.

The total receipts for six months of the current fiscal year were $174,151,000 against $192,897,000 first six months, two years ago first 20 days of January $220,837,000 against $21,756,000 two years ago; total revenue estimated for current fiscal year, $362,000,000 against $403,079,000 two years ago.

These actual receipts of $174,151,000 for the first six months of the current fiscal year were about $7,000,000 more than the expenditures for the corresponding six months, the expenditures being $167,074,000. The expenditures estimated for the current fiscal year were $338,000,000 or about $24,000,000 less than the estimated receipts of $362,000,000.

In answer to Mr. Springer, Mr. Spaulding stated that the postal receipts and expenditures were not included in his statement, but that the deficit in the postal department had been included in the expenditures so that the surplus shown was not affected. Mr. Spaulding, in answer to a question, said that the figures did not include the sinking fund.

Mr. Spaulding said, in answer to questions by members of the committee, that in order to make up the requirements of the sinking fund the treasury would be obliged to pay $10,000,000 out of the total surplus. He considered available for the expenses of the government, the $100,000,000 of the gold reserve held for the redemption of greenbacks. If that amount was paid out he thought that greenbacks could be redeemed.

Mr. Spalding said he did not consider the bonds extended by the treasury current liabilities of the government because it was optional with the government when they should be redeemed.

In response to Mr. Turner, of Georgia, a member of the committee, Mr. Spalding said that if the fractional silver fund and the gold fund were taken out, there would be neither a surplus nor a deficit; the receipts and expenditures would just about balance.

Incidentally Mr. Spaulding stated that the estimate of the river and harbor improvement next year was $46,000,000. He also stated that at the close of last month the treasury had paid upward of one million dollars in silver bonds.

Mr. Spaulding said he believed the treasury would come out about $6,000,000 ahead—that is, it would have that amount of surplus at the end of 1898.

In answer to a question from ex-Speaker Reed, a member of the committee, he said that the sinking fund was far ahead of requirements of law. In times past, he said, in answer to another question, more of the public debt had been cancelled than was required.

"That was under a democratic administration," said Mr. Springer.

"Oh, don't let us get partisan," said Mr. Reed.

"Oh, that would be offensive, I'm sure," said Mr. Cockran, with a sly glance at Mr. Reed.

This concluded the hearing.

AN INDEX ELECTION.

Much Interest Felt in the Rossendale Contest To-day.

London, Jan. 23.—What is looked upon as the most important election in the recent history of English politics, took place to-day in the Rossendale division of Lancashire. The seat was left vacant by the fact that Lord Hartington, its representative in parliament for years past, entered the house of lords upon the death of his father, the late duke of Devonshire.

This election contest has been the most fiercely fought in England for many years and both the conservatives and the liberals have openly admitted that the next general election is liable to go the way that Rossendale goes to-day.

TOM IS COMING OVER.

Liverpool, Jan. 23.—Tom O'Brien, the American buco steerer, sailed for New York to-day on the steamer Arizona in charge of Detective Reilly of New York. Inspector Froest of Scotland Yard accompanied them to Queenstown.

RUSSIAN GOLD.

London, Jan. 23.—It is announced that Russia will not for the present withdraw her gold deposits from the various financial centers in Europe.

A signal service to weak womankind is the finding of lost health—the building-up of "a run-down" system. Nothing does it so surely as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures all the derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to the sex. It's the most perfect of strength-givers, imparting tone and vigor to the whole system. For overworked, debilitated teachers, milliners, seamstresses, "shop-girls," nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, it is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

"Favorite Prescription" gives satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it is promptly refunded. That's the way it's sold; that's the way its makers prove their faith in it. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion; a legitimate medicine, not a beverage. Purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. AN ECCENTRIC OLD MAN.

George Urban Dies Worth a Hundred Thousand Dollars.

Norwalk, O., Jan. 23.—(Special)—George Urban, a prominent German resident of this city, who died yesterday, was a very peculiar and eccentric man.

He was always a very hard-working man and made his wife and children work like slaves.

He was 81 years old and lived on a farm near this town for 40 years, and hoarded up his earnings. He is reported to be worth $100,000. He always was in mortal fear lest some one would rob him, and he hid his cash in different places about his house. He leaves a wife and four daughters.

BISHOP HORSTMANN.

Of Cleveland, Receives the Official Bull of His Election—The Consecration.

Philadelphia, Jan. 23.—Rev. Dr. Horstmann, bishop-elect of Cleveland, received the official bull of his election as bishop yesterday from Rome.

The date for his consecration will be fixed in a few days. The ceremony will take place at the cathedral, and will be participated in by a number of the leading clergymen of the country.

Rev. Dr. Horstmann will be the recipient of many receptions and presents previous to his departure for his new field of labor.

COOLLY SHOOTS HIMSELF,

Takes a Walk and Enters a Street Car,

Returning to the City, Where the Wound is Discovered—The Victim Now at the Hospital.

A most desperate attempt at suicide which is likely to prove successful, was made by a young Italian, named Samuel J. Magald, last night.

About 8:30 Magald left Hanner's billiard hall, on St. Clair street, boarded a lower Summit car, left the car and walked to Schuller's ice houses, Manhattan, and in the shadow of the big frame buildings shot himself in the left breast with an old-fashioned 32-caliber revolver. The ball went very near the heart, but did not prove immediately fatal.

The man then threw the revolver into an ice wagon and coolly walked back to Summit avenue, where he boarded an Erie street electric car and rode up town. He left this car at Jefferson street and returned to Hanner's saloon. Here he gave a note to one of the employes and sat down to watch a game of billiards.

Presently some one noticed that the man appeared ill, and upon questioning him, he simply answered that he was sick. The patrol wagon was sent for, and Magald was taken to the police station. Here it was found that he was shot, and Dr. Fisher was summoned at once.

Magald then told the officers that he had shot himself, that he did not want to live, and if he recovered from this he would try it again.

When Dr. Fisher arrived he examined the wound, and found that the bullet had entered just below the left nipple, but had evidently taken a slightly downward course, or it would have pierced the heart. The ball could not be found, and the man was bleeding inwardly. The wound was dressed, and the man left on a cot in the station.

Dr. Fisher did not consider that the man could live, but he survived until this morning and retained perfect consciousness. He could lie down, but kept in a sitting posture on the bed.

Magald was a sailor, and about 11 o'clock this morning he was taken to the Marine hospital, St. Vincent's, in the patrol wagon.

It was a sad sight to see this young man sitting on the dirty cot in the little room in the police station basement. The room is badly ventilated, and it is a miserable place for even a healthy man. Yet the city has no emergency hospital, and no provisions of any kind for such cases. Consequently, having no home or friends, the man was obliged to sit there and suffer with only such attendance as the police officials could give, until taken to the hospital. If he had not been a sailor he would yet be at the station.

The revolver which Magald used was found in an ice wagon this morning, where he said he had thrown it.

Magald is 23 years old and has been in and out of Toledo for three years past. He has been out of work for about five weeks and for the past 10 days has been living with Mrs. Kleefish, 140 Wade street. Frederick, a son of Mrs. Kleefish, knew Magald and had taken him home as he had no employment, no money and but few friends.

Within the past few weeks Magald has made several attempts at suicide by shooting and poison, but each time has been prevented from accomplishing his design by young Kleefish.

He was very despondent over being unable to secure work, and he was also melancholy over a love affair he claimed to have with a married woman. All this preyed on his mind, and he seemed determined to die.

The letter which Magald gave to an employe of Hanner's was addressed to Fred Kleefish and is as follows:

"dear friend frid I will say that you and your mother have been vary kind to me that is more than I ever deserved from anybody and I can't never pay you for your kindness but I hope god will give you a good success in your future life now frid if you want to see me again you know the spot. Yours truly good bye."

S. J. Magald.

Later.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon Magald was still alive but suffering very much and gradually sinking.

INJUNCTION PERPETUATED.

The Consolidated Make Another Point.

The Circuit Court Passes Upon the Old Depot Case and Affirms the Lower Court.

The circuit court yesterday afternoon rendered an opinion in the noted street railroad Union depot case.

The opinion of the common pleas court was affirmed and the injunction restraining the Robisons from interfering with the Consolidated tracks at the Union depot was made perpetual. The case was entered in common pleas court when the Robisons completed a line to the Union depot.

When North Railroad avenue was opened up to the Union depot the Consolidated turn table was in the way and it became necessary to move it.

The Robisons went into court and asked that the Consolidated be restrained from crossing their tracks at the Union depot. Judge Pugsley overruled the motion for an injunction and granted the Consolidated a temporary injunction restraining the Robisons from interfering with their tracks, and this has been in force up to the present time.

The opinion of the court was determined by virtue of a valid lease in possession of the Consolidated, given by the Lake Shore Railroad company, of a right of way to the Union depot, over the company's property, and that the dedication of Railroad avenue did not interfere with the title to the property.

GENERAL BOOTH.

Bombay, Jan. 23.—Gen. Booth, of the Salvation Army, sailed to-day for England. He was accompanied to the steamer by an immense crowd of Salvationists, who prayed, sang, and gave him an enthusiastic farewell.

FAVORS THE ARMY.

London, Jan. 23.—The court of queen's bench has reversed the decision of the lower court, which convicted the Eastbourne Salvationists of breach of peace, holding that there was no evidence of rioting on their part.

W. M. Wilkison, manager of the great Salvini, was at the Boody last night, en route from Detroit to Cincinnati, and left for the latter city this morning. From Cincinnati he goes to Washington and Philadelphia. The Salvini engagement in Washington is expected to be one of the most brilliant of the year, a large number of the diplomatic corps having already engaged their seats and boxes.

A number of pupils from the Raymer Street school were pleasantly entertained by Miss Ida Rabbit, who gave a three-mile sleigh-ride to her pleasant country home. Dainty refreshments were served and a delightful evening spent. Among the guests were the Misses Bessie Leckrider, Mabel Hinkley, Maud Marks, Etta Sheridan, Alma Confer, Clare Power, Bessie Young and Messrs. Tom Casey, Herbert Davies, Nellie Thompson, Harry Fink, Will Casey and Eddie Simon.

This week a delightful sleigh ride was enjoyed by a party of young people from Lower Town. They arrived at I. N. Keller's, on the Bay shore, about 10:30, where they danced and had a good time till early morn. The Misses Teresa Schilling, Bessie Mayer, Rose Jacoby, Myers, Kewley, Geneva Dickson, Clippenger, Messrs. Ermine, DeVille, Chas. and Geo. Probeck, Russell Quick, John Kohrman, and Harry Clapperton made up the jolly company.

While Miss Nellie Cook was in Cleveland she participated in a very beautiful benefit concert with Mrs. Annie Rutherford Keith and Mrs. Ford. The Cleveland Leader said of Miss Cook's playing upon this occasion the following: "Miss Nellie Cook, a young pianist of facile technique and fine executive ability, gave a march by Wagner and was compelled to respond to a double encore." Miss Cook is a favorite wherever she goes.

At the residence of Mrs. E. Seek, Thursday evening, occurred the marriage of James F. Lamb and Miss Bertha Baumgardner. Miss Mary Lamb was bridesmaid and Wm. H. Covert was best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Burns. After the ceremony a pleasant evening was enjoyed wih recitations by Mrs. D. D. Dunscomb, Mrs. Mann, Mrs. McCormick; vocal selections by Mr. and Mrs. Justice Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Covert, and Andy O'Neill and violin selections by Mrs. Seek.

Dr. and Mrs. James L. Watson entertained a number of friends very pleasantly last evening with progressive euchre at their home on Sixteenth street. The affair was in honor of Miss Weldon, of Circleville, who is the guest of Mrs. Watson. The guests present were Dr. and Mrs. John Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. James Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. John Landgraf, Mrs. J. W. Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Blacque Wilson, Miss Fannie McLain, Miss Jennie Corlett, Mr. Hayward Brown, Mr. Ed Kirke. The favors were won by Mrs. James Cummins and Mr. Blacque Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neukom entertained the members of the K. P. building board last evening at their beautiful home on Broadway. The party was thoroughly a stag affair, but was none the less enjoyable. From 8 until 11 the gentlemen indulged in the board's favorite game of razzle-dazzle, and then the company sat down to an elegant repast prepared by Mrs. Neukom, to which full justice was done. Cards were resumed after dinner, and it was 2 o'clock before there were thoughts of separation. Though at a little unseemly hour, half the party, through the courtesy of Mr. H. W. Wilhelm, enjoyed a sleighride by electric and moonlight. The evening was most pleasantly spent, and Mr. and Mrs. Neukom were unanimously voted elegant entertainers.

The charity concert which will be given at the palatial residence of Mrs. F. B. Shoemaker, will occur some time during February. As the musical program is entirely under the direction of Mr. Elvin Singer a rare treat is in store for those fortunate enough to receive invitations. The following soloists besides Mr. Singer himself will take part: Miss Nellie Cook, pianist; Miss Grace Reals (late prima donna of the Bostonians), soprano; Miss May Barden Colburn, of Boston, violinist. The program will open up with the beautiful quartet from Bohemian Girl, and will close with the celebrated quartet from Rigoletto, in which the following well-known singers will participate with Miss Grace Reals and Mr. Singer: The Misses Hattie Gasser and Mary Chase, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Williams and Mr. Chas. Wuerfel.

Last evening at 7 o'clock a party of about 20 started for a sleigh ride from the residence of Judge Millard, where the young folks had gathered. Horns, tin pans and all the accessories for keeping everybody awake on the line traversed were taken along. In a few hours the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wynn, below Ironville, was reached, where the party was delightfully entertained. An oyster supper was served, and then with games, music, etc., the night was rounded out, the participants arriving home this morning to notify their parents that it was time to prepare the breakfast. Those who made up the jolly crowd were the Misses Clara, Edna and Edith Millard, Edith Spayd, Kittie Day, Bertha Hood, Carrie, Grace and Nelly Beatty, Aurelia Fish, George and Fred Millard, Harry Fish, Frank Sisson, Art Emmick, Nelson Buck, Joe Scharf, Frank Cook and Will Leighton.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Frank Greiner gave a leap year sleigh ride party to Maumee at Schiell hotel. The evennig was spent in dancing until 12 o'clock, when a supper of rare elegance was spread for the merry guests. During the intermission the Young Gentlemen's Pleasure club gave an entertainment which proved to be a great success, and about 2 the merry crowd started for home. The ladies present were: Misses Emma and Bertha Mendelsohn, Flora Rice, Tillie Rice, Clara Boppo, Anna Feeley, Gretchen Geiger, Lizzie Knechtly, Mary White, Ora Hewey, Phoebe and Anna Chappell, Kittie McKinley, Almanda Underferth and her two sisters. The gentlemen present were: Messrs. Frank Greiner, Sam Frankfort, Will Turner, Charles Seager, Will Orendorf, Ed Hewey, Perry and Will Dearth, Will Geleerd, Frank Potts, Frank Kelly, Will Marrow and Mr. Peabody.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings in the neck; which causes running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. It is the most ancient of all diseases, and very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. If you suffer from scrofula, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Every spring my wife and children have been troubled with scrofula, my little boy, three years old, being a terrible sufferer. Last spring he was one mass of sores from head to feet. We all took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and all have been cured of the scrofula. My little boy is entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy." W. B. ATHERTON, Passaic City, N. J.

CLOAKS! CLOAKS!! CLOAKS!!!

DON'T MISS THE BANKRUPT SALE!

THE FUN LASTS UNTIL JAN. 30.

Owing to the backward season we have about one-half of our large consignment of Cloaks left. We did not sell as many garments as we should have, before the holidays, and of course must sell them now. But how? Not by selling an $18 garment for $15; not by selling a $12.50 garment for $10. This would not have the desired effect: we might sell a few goods at those prices; that is not what we want; they must all go. Now see how we will do it. Read these prices:

Ladies' Plush Cloaks, former price	$35.00	now $15.00
Ladies' Plush Cloaks, former price	30.00	now 12.50
Ladies' Plush Cloaks, former price	25.00	now 9.00

Ladies' Fur-Trimmed Reefers in tan and gray, were $20, now $9.
Misses' Jackets, never sold less than $7, go for $3.
Misses' Newmarkets, well worth $5, going in this sale for 1.50.
Children's Cloaks in endless variety at proportionately low prices.

You want these goods. We don't. We must straighten our account with the court, and have until January 30 to do it. Now don't delay. This is the chance of a life-time. Sale closes January 30. Positively continues no longer.

CURRENT TOPICS.

Paris boasts of some fifty daily newspapers, but a Parisian will tell you that scarcely half a dozen of these fifty are really profitable enterprises for themselves. The most profitable journals are Le Petit Journal, Le Figaro, La Lanterne and Le Gaulios. The Journal des Debats pays a fair profit, but then it is published at the price of 20 centimes a number, the yearly subscription for Paris being 72 francs. Not more than half a dozen Parisian papers are printed from their own type or on their own machines. The majority have editorial rooms in some modest quarter, and the paper is composed and printed in one of the great printing establishments in the neighborhood of the Rue Montmartre, which contract to deliver 20,000 copies of a large four-page journal for about 1,500 francs. A few thousand francs suffices to start a new journal; if it succeeds a little it is well, if it does not the disaster is not great, and a Parisian may keep his little journal for amusement or to advocate his particular hobby as another would a steam yacht, an elegant mistress or a pack of hounds.

Baron Hirsch, who has recently bought enough land in the Argentine Republic to constitute a very respectable kingdom, says that even more will be needed to carry out his plan. The colonies are to be started just as soon as Major Goldsmith, who has the enterprise in immediate charge, reaches South America. The plan is to send 20,000 Jews during the present year. Whatever the material success of Baron Hirsch's colonization scheme, students will have to thank him for one of the most interesting social experiments of the time. The character of the Hebrew has been a subject of general discussion of late, and there is a current conviction that the success of the Jewish people is contingent upon an organized society. Baron Hirsch's enterprise will throw light upon this.

The position of grand secretary to the Freemasons of England, rendered vacant by death, is one by no means easy to fill efficiently, says a London correspondent. It is technically in the gift of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as grand master, but the craft is eminently a constitutional body, and the appointment will be, doubtless, made as heretofore, by long tradition, on the recommendation of the responsible advisers who form the grand master's council. Upon the wisdom of their selection much of the prosperity and stable contentment of the order depends, and its well wishers are already hoping that the personal qualifications and special fitness of candidates may be carefully weighed, and that fantastic claims of whatever kind may be as carefully ignored. It will be difficult, indeed, to replace the widely loved, respected and versatile Shadwell Clerke, but his loss need not be embittered by the appointment of a successor who would be condemned as unqualified by the popular voice.

Some curious facts are brought into prominence by a correspondent of Cycling, who has been at the pains to draw up a comparative table of the rates of speed in different modes of locomotion. The express train, of course, stands pre-eminent. Man has as yet discovered no faster way of getting about on the earth's surface. It will be a surprise, however, to many to learn that the safety bicycle, of which so much is heard nowadays, only occupies in this list the seventh place. The fastest time in which a train has been known to travel a mile is 49 seconds and a fraction; to accomplish the same distance the fastest bicyclist who has hitherto ridden took two minutes and three-quarters, or just about three times as long. An ice yacht has travelled a mile in 1m. 10s. a running horse in 1m. 35 1-2s., a torpedo boat in 1m. 50s., a steam yacht in 2m. 12s. and a fraction, and a skater on ice, with favorable wind behind him, in 2m. 12s. and rather a larger fraction. A little way after the safety bicycle comes the ocean liner; the oarsman is much slower, taking 5m. 40s. to travel a mile, and slowest of all is the swimmer, who requires very little short of half an hour to perform the same journey.

Unless another coat of paraffine is applied to the obelisk in Central park, New York seems to be in danger of losing its monolith which it transported with such difficulties from the banks of the Nile. Already some of the valuable hieroglyphs upon it have vanished, and unless the others are speedily protected their disappearance is the question of only a short time. These ravages of the weather upon the obelisk, however, suggest a subject that has received too little attention with us. That is the study of the "life" of our building stones and of the methods of protecting them from decay and change. Dr. Julien made some investigation in this field for the census of 1880, but the matter is one that calls for careful search yet, both for economical and scientific purposes.

Nearly all the improvements conducted by the army engineers are unnecessarily expensive, whether done by contract or otherwise, says a writer in the Engineering magazine. The writer recently had charge of opening a deep water port on the Gulf of Mexico which the army engineers had previously undertaken to improve, and failing to obtain any satisfactory results, had abandoned as impracticable. The material for construction in both cases was obtained from the same source, and yet the cost of construction per cubic yard, under the direction of the engineer corps, was six times that of the private enterprise. There is no reason for such a waste of public funds, except a lack of knowledge of construction, which, in civil life, would effectually debar any engineer from securing charge of work. This so-called esprit du corps of the army engineers has degenerated into a sort of nepotism, such that of the five positions in the corps, that in compliance with law should be filled by civilians, two have been given to sons of West Point graduates and one to a retired army officer. No appointments have been made for the remaining two vacancies, probably for lack of proper material of the same character. No candid investigator can examine the history of our public works for the past twenty years without coming to the conclusion that the practice and method of the engineer corps are a disgrace to the nation, and an outrage upon every practising engineer in the country. Their inefficiency is beyond question, and their waste of public funds forms a formidable obstacle to the progress of our most important commercial and industrial enterprises.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

THE SIMMONS CASE.

The circuit court yesterday afternoon dismissed the petition in error in the case of the state against Foster E. Simmons, for want of prosecution.

THE FIRST GAS CERTIFICATE.

The first gas certificate of indebtedness of the gas trustees, one for $5,700, is due to-day, and was not paid by the treasurer, as the city auditor refuses to recognize the certificates.

IT WAS NOT GRIFFIN.

The telegraphic ticks made the Bee of yesterday state that Mr. Griffin had introduced a bill to raise the salary of the members of the legislature. It was an error, the bill having been introduced by Mr. Gaumer, and the correction is due Mr. Griffin.

FOUND DEAD.

An old man named Herman Smith was found dead in bed in his house in Arlington Place yesterday afternoon. He was living alone, his wife having left him, and yesterday when a neighbor called he was found dead. Coroner Beckwith viewed the remains and declared that consumption was the cause of death.

BREAK IN THE WATER MAIN.

A bad break in the city water main occurred last evening at the corner of Broadway and Western avenue. It is not thought at the water works that the effects of the accident will be felt anywhere about the city. The pressure during the night fell to 15 pounds but by this noon it was brought up to 60 pounds. Men are at work on the break and things will be soon running as usual.

CHARLES SUMNER LODGE.

Last evening the members of Charles Sumner lodge, K. of P., enjoyed a pleasant installation and party at the Pythian castle. The floor was crowded with guests and everything passed off with eclat, as is the rule with all entertainments arranged by this popular lodge. The knights were gallant, the ladies charming, the music entrancing and the evening perfect. Nothing more could have been desired.

JUDGE DOYLE AND THE BOYS.

Judge John H. Doyle talked to the boys last evening and having once been a boy himself he knew just what to say. His remarks were addressed to the juniors of the Y. M. C. A., and he spoke to them of the requirements of the coming lawyer. The speaker dwelt on three qualifications: honesty, industry and perseverance. His remarks were interesting throughout.

AN ENGLISH PREACHER SECURED

Rev. J. S. Buckingham, of London, England, has accepted a call from the Eleventh Street Church of Christ, in this city and commences his pastorate to-morrow. Rev. Buckingham was formerly of the West London Tabernacle. He has preached in Toledo two Sundays and has so pleased his hearers that he was earnestly requested to remain. He has had a number of calls since his arrival in this country, but as Toledo pleases him he has decided to remain here.

TREAT FOR Y. M. C. A. MEMBERS.

Next Tuesday, Rev. J. M. Barkley, of Detroit, will deliver his great lecture on "One Year in the Rebel Army," before the members of the Young Men's Christian association and their lady friends, in Association hall. The lecture was given in Detroit six times last season before crowded houses and this season, among other engagements, he appears in the Cleveland Y. M. C. A. star course. It is one of the members' entertainments here and owing to the limited capacity of Association hall, no tickets can be sold to the public, as association members each have free admission with lady friend.

SENT TO THE REFORM SCHOOL.

The case of Vaughn McCloy, a 12-year-old boy who was arrested for stealing cigars from the store of C. L. Beard, at Manhattan, came up in police court this morning. This was not the lad's first offense, as he has served a term in the Buffalo reformatory. He was committed to the state industrial school at Lancaster. A little feeling was aroused in police circles inasmuch that the court made an oredr directing S. F. Tanner, deputy police clerk, to take the boy to Lancaster. The arrest was made by Detective Kruse, and it has heretofore been the custom to allow the officer making the arrest to take the prisoner to his destination.

AN ENJOYABLE MUSICALE.

A very successful and enjoyable musicale was given at the parlors of St. Paul's church last evening. Miss Annie Adams, of Fostoria, gave a pleasing interpretation of Faust Fantasie. Leybach. Miss Florence Curry sang "My Love is Late" and "The Serenade" in a charming manner. Miss K. Cornelia Colton rendered an exquisite solo, Chopin's Polonaise. The violin selections by Joe Fisk were well rendered, Miss Clark Hart acting as accompanist. Other equally pleasing numbers were given by Miss Perla Bowman, Miss Lenie Schuck, Miss Gertrude Bateman, Miss Nellie Bush and Miss Helen Wilkin. Those present were highly entertained.

THEY ARE GRATEFUL.

The managers of the Adams Street Mission with the officers and teachers of its Sabbath school wish to express their thanks to the merchants and families and to all who aided to make the mid-January Christmas tree for the mission children the great success it was.

Other years have shown the generous good-feeling existing toward this city mission work and its Sunday school, but the 21st anniversary surpasses them all in the over abundance and quality of material given for the little ones.

The press of Toledo, ever kind to us, will accept their share of thanks for the liberal notices which brought forth such hearty response and aided in making so many hearts happy and glad, that without this January Christmas tree would have gone Christmasless.

MANAGERS ADAMS ST. MISSION.

LAST NIGHT AT THE MISSION.

The anniversary exercises at the Adams Street Mission Friday night would compare very favorably with many of our city Sabbath school entertainments. The exercises were opened with prayer by City Missionary Gen. Slevin, followed by voluntary songs and recitations by the teachers and scholars, after which the presents were distributed by classes. The best of order prevailed and everyone went home feeling well satisfied with the presents and favors shown them.

DUPES AND DECEIVERS.

Early in the conference year, the various societies connected with St. John's M. E. church set about to arrange for the purchase of a pipe organ. Many features are already devised and more are likely to be. The Epworth league have an attraction on hand for next Tuesday evening, when Rev. Dr. Fish, the pastor, for himself and the league will lecture at the church on the subject of "Dupes and Deceivers." The members have been laboring zealously for weeks disposing of tickets, and a large attendance is anticipated. The lecture will no doubt be well worth hearing, as are all of Dr. Fish's efforts, and the financial lift to the organ fund is expected to be considerable. The league extends a cordial invitation to their friends and the public in general to give the organization a liberal patronage.

DRILL, INSPECTION AND PARTY.

The members of Canton Lucas, Patriarchs Militant, together with their friends, enjoyed their sixth annual party last evening at Odd Fellows' temple. The early part of the evening was taken up with drill and inspection, conducted by Gen. J. D. Whitaker, of Dayton, department commander of Ohio, and staff, Col. D. C. Hight, Col. A. J. Eyster, Adjt. W. F. Van Loo and Lieut. W. G. Hulhorst. Gen. Whitaker was much pleased with the drill and paid the canton a high compliment for their proficiency. Dancing followed and a pleasant evening was enjoyed. Over 400 ladies and gentlemen sat down to the excellent supper. The following committee had the party in charge: On arrangements, Geo. Stough, Phil. Hassenzahl, jr., Chas. Baither, Thor Holst and Chris Unbehaun; reception, Phil. Schmidt, Fred Ritter, John Conway, Jacob Englehardt, Thor Holst and W. A. De Forest; floor, Phil. Hassenzahl, Ed. Blackmore, E. S. Gray, A. M. Waldron, E. E. Englehardt and Chas. Baither.

LIKE A FLASH.

Another Electric Works Completely Destroyed.

Five Men Lose Their Lives by a Fire in the Boston Electric Light Company's Building.

Boston, Jan. 23.—The Ferdinand street station of the Boston Electric Light company, a three-story building, was burned at 3:40 this morning, involving a loss of upwards of $50,000.

The building was filled with the most approved and costly electric light machinery, all of which is a total loss, the engine room being the only portion which was not totally destroyed.

At the time of the discovery of the fire six men were at work in the building, only one of whom is known to have escaped. This man states that like a flash the entire building seemed to be enveloped in flames. He escaped to the street. He thinks the others must have perished.

This electric station supplied the power for the lights on Tremont street and in nearly the entire southern section of the city besides private residences. All the lights went out, leaving the streets in total darkness.

NATIVES WERE FIGHTERS.

Bloody Battle in the French Soudan.

Several Hundred of the Inhabitants Left Dead and Dying on the Cory Field.

London, Jan. 23.—The dispatch from Paris to the Times says that the expedition sent out by the French government under the command of Col. Humbert against the tribe of Samory in the French Soudan to punish them for their acts of lawlessness against French subjects and French laws, had an engagement with the natives on January 11.

The natives outnumbered the forces of the expedition, but the latter had the advantage in that their arms were far superior to those of the natives.

The latter, however, fought bravely, and some of their charges against the French were characterized by an utter contempt for death. The better arms and superior discipline of the French stood them in good stead, and after severe fighting the natives withdrew.

The French loss was 6 killed and 30 wounded. The natives left behind them several hundred of their number dead on the field.

MEANS A BUSY YEAR.

Big Ore Contracts Placed by Carnegie.

Over a Million Tons Placed on the Books to be Delivered Next Season.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 23.—A transaction by Carnegie Bros. & Co. with two western firms involving over $3,000,000, is announced.

Upwards of 1,000,000 tons of ore was contracted for by the big Bessemer plant. E. C. Pope, of Cleveland, is the representative and broker for several iron ore concerns operating in northwestern Michigan, in the Lake Superior region and through him an order amounting to $1,500,000 was placed by the Carnegies while an equally large amount was taken from Minneapolis firms.

The ore of the Gogebic mines is excellent for steel rails. The Chaplin ore, which is taken from the mines in Minnesota, is also good and the two are generally mixed.

The large orders now on the books of Carnegie Bros. for steel rails are the reasons for a purchase of such magnitude.

WANTED TO BURN HIM,

But Finally Concluded to Hang Him.

Two Hundred and Fifty Men Take J Hepler From Jail and Blot Out His Life.

Nevada, Mo., Jan. 23.—A mob of 250 men from Barton county came here last night and took from the jail J. Hepler, the murderer of Mrs. Goodley and her little son.

The mob started back with the avowed purpose of burning Hepler at the stake. The sheriff gathered a posse, and started in pursuit. Nothing has been heard as to the outcome.

Later—The Barton county mob took Hepler back to Lamar and hanged him in the court house yard.

NEW BRICK WORKS.

Canton, O., Jan. 23.—Canton's extensive brick industries are to be increased in the spring by the establishment of a $100,000 plant just southeast of the city.

The most of our ailments come from disordered liver which Simmons Liver Regulator cures.

LITTLE JUDGE SALA

Has His Legal Acumen Turned Down

By the Circuit Court, Which Affirms Common Pleas Decision—The Police Jury Law Referred to.

The Toledo supreme court received another lesson in law yesterday afternoon from the circuit court.

Among other cases this court handed down an opinion in the case of the state against Henzler.

The public is well informed as to the details in this case. Henzler keeps a saloon and was arrested some time ago for violating the Sunday closing law. He was tried and convicted, and the defense promptly appealed the case to the common pleas court on alleged error of the court in the matter of filling a jury panel. The court issued a special venire to fill the panel, and in common pleas court the plaintiff in error argued that the panel should have been filled by the chief of police or his representative.

The judgment of the police court was reversed and the case remanded back for trial.

The court held that the police court erred in issuing a special venire, sustaining the position taken by the plaintiff in error.

The state then appealed the case to the circuit court, and an opinion was handed down among others yesterday afternoon.

It was ruled that the circuit court had no jurisdiction in state cases lost in common pleas court and appealed by the state, for the reason that, according to the statute, no person accused of crime shall be tried for the same offense more than once. However, on account of the urgent request of counsel, the court passed upon the case.

The judgment of the lower court was affirmed. The statute provides that a jury in police court must be empaneled according to a rule established by the court, on an ordinance. This rule has been established by the police court, and embodied in a revised book of ordinances, which provides that the chief of police or his representative must fill the panel from the bystanders, and that the court has no jurisdiction to issue a special venire for talesmen.

The court was of the opinion that the ordinance could be amended, vesting this power in the police court, if such legislation would prevail.

SENTENCED TO BE SHOT.

Two of the Ascension Revolutionists Must Die.

Deming, N. M., Jan. 23.—Two of the ascension revolution leaders have been sentenced to be shot next week for the part they took in the uprising.

Several others will be tried soon and will most likely receive a similar fate.

The Mexican consul here is trying to secure the persons of the Sais brothers and Baca, who were arrested in the Mesilla valley by United States officers.

SECRET MEETING

On the Gas Trustees' Bonding Proposition,

Between the Council Committee on Ways and Means and the Gas Board.

The council committee on ways and means held a secret meeting yesterday afternoon with the board of gas trustees in City Solicitor Read's office. No outsiders were admitted, but the discussion was a long one, and it is understood that the debate was rather warm at times.

Alderman C. W. Everett was present, and a large part of the time was taken up in explaining to him what had been done at the previous meeting.

President Parsons, of the gas board, explained the proposition of the trustees and what they wanted the council to do.

Nothing new was brought out, and the committee took no action in the matter other than to request the trustees to furnish them with an itemized statement of this $350,000 of indebtedness.

AT THE WHEELER.

A Large Audience Present at the Tri-State Complimentary.

A delightful entertainment was given at the opera house last evening by the Tri-State business college and Best shorthand school. The entertainment was complimentary, and was appreciated by the large number present. The first number on the program was a polka rendered by Sig. N. G. Fachutar, mandolin, and Sig. R. G. Fachutar, guitar, who proved themselves favorites from the start. G. L. Padget recited S-s-s-s-am's Letter, to the amusement of all. The Orlo male quartet is an old-time favorite with the public, and gave several pleasing selections last night. A tableau, "The Rival Lovers," was a very pretty and effective scene, participated in by a number of charming ladies. Master Harry Hoagland delighted the audience with a solo entitled, "The Telephone Song," and responded to an encore with "Where did you get that hat?' Miss Alice M. Keller gave several recitations, and received a beautiful floral piece. Miss Maud Fuller and P. T. Germane rendered a piano duet. Miss Genevieve Carpenter, whose ability as an elocutionist is publicly recognized, recited, "My Stenographer," (written by Mrs. Carpenter) and "The Naughty Girl." Miss Carpenter was the recipient of a pretty floral offering. Little Sadie Wertheim, aged 8 years, recited the "Bootblack," and made the hit of the evening. She is a charming little creature, and is always favorite. Later in the evening she gave a violin solo, which was exquisitely rendered. Her playing is marvelous, and a brilliant future is predicted for her. W. T. Huntsman sang "I Did It," and made every one laugh.

The program closed with a scene from the "Rival Queens," in which Mrs. and Miss Carpenter participated, the ladies doing some fine acting. The costumes for this occasion were elegant, and Messrs. Melchoirs are to be congratulated upon their success in giving this evening of pleasure.

The faculty of the Tri-State business college consists of Mr. W. J. Melchoir, Mr. C. M. Robison, Mrs. J. W. Melchoir, Mrs. E. M. Demuth, Mr. C. H. Melchoir and Mr. T. Templeton.

SORENESS OF THE LUNGS.

Your finger thumps to find the spot. Little needle pains are felt there; the irresistible hacking cough denotes audibly where the trouble lies. A long breath may excite the difficulty, a spasm of coughing follow, leaving you weak and forlorn, with dread of worse to come. What is to be done? You have tried the balsams, syrups and the other compounds that pharmacy or a worse quackery has dealt out, but the cough hangs on and you are now conscious that no trifling can be further endured, no delay permitted, but the right thing to save you, and that now is absolutely required. And what is it; Cod Liver Oil? No, although plain Cod Liver Oil has long been acknowledged by physicians to possess remarkable curative properties; but the difficulty of assimilation and digestion has stood up almost as a barrier against its use by the delicate and feeble stomach of invalids. These objections have been overcome and the pure Norwegian (the best of all) Cod Liver Oil has been emulsified and made almost as palatable as milk in the wonderful invention called Scott's Emulsion, which also possesses the advantage of being combined with the hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. This remedy is acceptable to the weakest digestion and is pronounced unrivalled by the medical profession throughout the world. It's use as a medicine serves also as a food; it searches out the weak spots in the lungs, and builds up the wasting tissues of the whole human system. It is truly a great food medicine.

A valuable find of skeletons belonging to the fourth dynasty was recently made in Egypt. This is the earliest known data of Egyptian remains.

FEARS OF A LYNCHING.

A Young Georgian With Unpleasant Prospects.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 23.—Wm. Nunally, a prominent young man of Griffin, Ga., was brought here last night from that point for safe keeping, it being feared that he would be lynched.

Nunally is under arrest for complicity in the murder of his grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Barrett. A negro named Kendall, who is held for the crime, tells a story to the effect that Nunally hired two negroes to do the murder. This Nunally denies.

IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles

London wheat market opens shade higher. Country markets slow and occasionally cheaper. Corn quiet. Liverpool wheat opens dull and unchanged. Corn shade lower.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 286,040 bu, compared with 192,611 bu on the same day last year.

Business failures in the United States and Canada for the week were 328, against 330 the previous week, and 411 for the corresponding week in 1891.

The Liverpool "Corn Trade News" has revised its estimated requirements of breadstuffs for Europe—enlarging them to 7,680,000 bu weekly against 7,000,000 bu, 3,080,000 bu to the United Kingdom and 4,600,000 to the Continent. Under the new calculation the clearances for Europe during the past twenty-four weeks were equal to 207,040,000 bu and the requirements 184,320,000 bu, consequently the surplus now is only 22,720,000 bu. The editor says: "The loss to Germany, Holland, Belgium, Scandinavia and the United Kingdom, of Russian rye, barley and oats, must be allowed to have some effect in ruising the normal consumption of wheat in these countries, which would have amounted to about 46,000,000 qrs. in the current season, but which for the foregong reason it is likely may amount to 50,000,000 qrs.

It is reported from Vienna that large quantities of corn are being dispatched from Austro-Hungary to Germany, owing to the considerably reduced charges of the Prussian railways for the transport of that cereal.

The secretary of the state of Michigan reports as follows: Wheat was injured very little, if at all, during December. About one-fourth of the correspondence in the southern sections of the state express the belief that some injury has occurred, but this belief evidently is based on the fact that the ground was practically bare of snow all the month rather than on the appearance of the plant. About three-fourths report no injury. In the central and northern counties about one-third of the correspondents report injury, and the remainder no injury.

The receipts of wheat continue light, 286,040 bu. at seven principal western points.

The receipts of grain in the week at eight principal western points, have been, Wheat: 1,872,000 bushels; corn, 3,054,000 bu.; oats, 1,782,000 bu. Previous week, wheat: 2,168,000 bu.; corn, 3,001,000 bu.; oats, 1,355,000 bu. In the corresponding week in 1891, wheat: 1,329,000 bu.; corn, 1,166,000 bu.; oats, 1,429,000 bu., showing a gain this week over 1891 on wheat, 543,000 bu.; corn, 1,888,000 bu.; oats, 353,000 bu. The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were, wheat, 260,761 bu., and flour to an aggregate of 525,000 bu. The exports of corn were 797,163 bu., and of oats 12,056 bu.

The exports in the week at four Atlantic ports were, wheat, 1,784,000 bu.; corn, 3,138,000 bu.; oats, 538,000 bu.

Bradstreets reports the exports from both coasts in the week 4,552,210 bu., and of corn at 2,800,000 bu.

English Wheat Sales.

Cable reports to-day state that farmers deliveries in the United Kingdom in the week are 76,050 quarters of wheat at an average price of 34 shillings, against 68,995 quarters at 35-6 last week.

The Markets To-day.

The wheat markets on both sides of the ocean are moving along in a beaten track without other incident than the preponderance of bears and bulls on the exchanges, one day with another, and the consequent up or down, temporary effect. It is a waiting market. We are inclined to think prices would advance were they not held down by the bear plungers, who meet every improvement with huge sales. The markets in this country are ready to advance, and very small provocation would produce it. It will come along some day in great haste. It does not seem unlikely to us that dealers who prepared for the future at about present prices would find their lamps trimmed and burning at the proper time.

In New York the market closed at 12 o'clock. January and May wheat 1-4c higher. January corn 1-4c and May 1-8c up. January oats unchanged.

Chicago closed 1-2c up on January and May wheat. January corn unchanged; May 1-8 better.

In Toledo we have had another dull market in wheat futures. The trading was light and without new inducements to business on either side. Prices have been a little stronger than yesterday, at one time 1-2c up, but the close was 1-4c higher than yesterday. On the call May wheat sold at 97. After the call at 96 3-4 to 97, and closed at 96 3-4.

Cash wheat showed a little more life and was 1-2c higher. No. 2 soft sold at 92 1-4c and closed at 92c; No. 3 soft at 90c; No. 1 white at 93c.

Corn—On the call May sold at 42c. After the call No. 2 at 40c; January at 40c; No. 3 at 39 1-2 to 39c; No. 4 at 38c; No. 2 yellow at 40c; No. 3 yellow at 39 1-2c.

Oats—No. 2 at 32 1-2c; May at 32 1-2c; rejected at 27c.

Rye—No. 2 to arrive at 85c; rejected at 78c.

Clover seed has had another upward turn to-day and at one time was 15c higher, but at close the outside prices of the day could not be obtained. On the call February sold at $5 80. After the call prime for cash at $5 80; January, $5 82 1-2 and $5 85 to $5 85 1-2; March, $5 85, closing at $5 77 1-2 and $5 80; No. 2 at $5 55.

THE PERILS OF RAILROADING.

A glance at the office docket of Hamilton & Ford, who are the leading attorneys in this part of the state in that branch of litigation, showing the number of suits commenced by them within the past ten days, will give some idea of the destruction of human life and form that is going on among the railroads entering in this city. They are:

John Burns vs. The C., H. V. & T. R. R. Co., loss of right arm, $30,000.

Eliza A. James vs. The L. S. & M. S. Ry. Co., scalded and permanently disfigured in the tunnel collision—the actress, $40,000.

Wm. O. Brown, jr., administrator of George James, the actor killed in same collision, vs. The L. S. & M. S. Ry. Co., $10,000.

John J. Healy vs. The Penn. Co., loss of left leg, $12,000.

Barney Radderdam vs. Penn. Co., loss of left hand, $25,000.

Henry Robinson vs. The Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, injury to left hand, $10,000.

THEY MUST GET OUT.

Everything in the line of winter suitings and overcoatings at John Daiber's merchant tailoring establishment must be closed out regardless of cost or value, in order to make room for new spring stock. Perfect fits guaranteed.

It was not Griffin who introduced the salary increase bill. It was Gaumer of Mansfield.

Partisans may still rejoice that Bradley was a tool, but history will never applaud his work on the electoral commission.

It is surmised that the contractors who were paid exorbitant prices along the pipe line are back of the movement to fund the doubtful certificates of indebtedness into good bonds of the city.

It is unnecessary to waste time and words in explanation of what the Holman resolution does or does not mean. One word tells it all. It means "retrenchment," only that, and nothing more.

There is good sense—business sense and common sense—in the rule the house has adopted which forbids any riders on appropriation bills except such as reduce the proposed expenditures.

A choice lot of statesmen from Columbus under charge of General Blankner are enjoying the hospitalities of the Toledo Asylum to-day. Great is Junket, and its most persistent patron is the legislator.

Possibly the president may reconsider Judge Woods case of award and elevate him to the supreme bench to fill the vacancy made by the death of Justice Bradley. He has demonstrated ability to render the party service.

Some northern organs are taking occasion to lecture Charleston, S. C., because it objects to a colored man for postmaster. Imagine a colored man attempting to get possession of such a place in Toledo. How Jim Brown and Jacob Romeis would squirm.

It was made evident by the opinion drawn from Prof. Henry C. Adams, in his lecture last evening, that he is a believer in the principles of fair and unrestricted trade between nations. With him stand nearly all teachers and students of the modern school of political economy.

As Governor McKinley cannot interfere with the proposed gerrymander of Ohio districts at all, an eastern mugwump paper innocently wonders why President Harrson, in view of what he said in his recent message, doesn't admonish his party in Ohio. He is too busy.

The Czar has had to interfere with wheat speculators, to whom starving peasants are of no account. Business is business. When the Czar orders the Mayor of Moscow to confiscate the food, if the speculators will not come to terms, it must be a desperate case. Such conditions of things rather deters the movement of charity, except through personal and well understood channels.

The spectacle of ex-Senator Edmunds (counsel in the original package case), lecturing the justices of the supreme court on their interpretation of the law, as he did yesterday, was a refreshing one. He said "he felt it his duty to tell the court that it had gone wrong in its construction of the constitution." It is not the first time the supreme court of the United States has been thus accused.

Over and over again it is asked, how can manufacturers sell their wares in South America in competition with the pauper labor of Europe, when they can not do it at home with the aid of a fifty per cent. tariff. The question is answered by the circulars of business houses which show a schedule of prices for the home trade, and a lower one for the foreign market. No high-tax advocates attempt an explanation. They maintain a "dignified silence."

There's no parecular need for slinging around, promiscuously, the "tin-plate liar." Congress is to be advised, periodically, and make report, as to the amount of tin ore produced in this country, and a resolution was adopted the other day, calling on the secretary of the treasury for a statement of the drawbacks paid to importers of tin plate, under the provisions of the McKinley bill. It may be possible to learn just where the enormous tax levy for the establishment of the industry, rests; who pays it and who gets it, and know if its actual working tallies with its avowed purpose. The steel and iron mills, which get the chief share of the benefit, have cut the wages of their employes, so it has failed of its alleged aim in this instance.

The proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of New York, which will come before the present legislature, provides that the courts instead of the legislature shall pass upon the qualifications and elections of its members. It is mentioned, oddly enough, that the most earnest advocacy of the measure is found in a special message of Gov. Hill, which traced the course of such reform in England and urged its adoption in his state. The necessity for such a measure is virtual confession that members of the legislature cannot be trusted to be fair and decide a matter according to law and evidence where their party preferences are concerned. The question is growing in significance, can the courts be trusted? In the light of precedents, no.

The statement of the trustees as to the pressure of the city wells fully corroborates every statement about the failing pressure of natural gas wells made in the series of letters contributed to the Bee by Mr. Beatty. Time will come when the gospel truth of these letters will stand out in the light of every day facts which everybody will admit. It would have saved this city hundreds of thousands of dollars if the trustees had not been too pig-headed to impartially investigate the whole subject two years ago. Of course citizens who all along have had faith in the city line, because they were assured of the truthfulness of the trustees' representations, do not want to lose the whole plant—nobody does, but the trustees alone are to blame. They have misrepresented the situation. They claimed the pressure was great when they knew differently. They deceived the people—deceived the friends of the enterprise.

Warning notes have been sent to the diplomatic representatives of Austria-Hungary, Colombia, Hayti, Nicaragua, Honduras and Venezuela, reminding them that this government decides that they shall regulate their tariffs to please it, else duties will be imposed upon their products by our president by way of retaliation, before March 15. Wonderful power this, conferred upon one man, to levy duty or remove it, for his own people, and to dictate to other countries how they shall act in the matter. Must not the president's embargo, laid upon sugar, molasses, tea, coffee and hides from these countries, affect the prices of these commodities? It will act as a levy upon the consumer, as surely as the removal of the duty on sugar benefited him. The American people are to pay this penalty themselves in order to punish foreign nations for regulating their tariff as shall suit their own needs and conveniences, instead of dancing when a man across the sea shall pull the string. Our Uncle Sam is a pretty big fellow, but he would better attempt to dominate the world's commercial progress in some more legitimate and less overbearing way. The McKinley law, with Mr. Blaine's attempt to render it respectable, has cost the United States the respect and friendship of all civilized nations, and the unconditional power which President Harrison will assume on the "Ides of March," no preventing providence, is the most absurd feature of it.

"KEEP STEP TO THE MUSIC OF THE UNION."

Party loyalty merges into nationalty when the honor of the nation is involved. The partisan, man or newspaper, that imagines that whatever is proposed by an opposition administration must be combatted, mistakes his own individuality and his professional calling. The republic rises to lofty heights and partyism sinks to insignificance when international questions arise which must be met in the spirit of intense devotion to country. There are newspapers of the democratic persuasion which incline to snarl at the present administration because it is confronted with serious trouble in Chile. These papers mistake the temper of their own patrons. The newspaper should stand by the government and not become a camp follower. The American people never seek trouble with foreign nations but they are ever ready to fight for their country's honor. In the van of patriotic expression should be found the American newspapers, and there they generally are found.

* * *

The news to-day is very serious. Chile has demanded the recall of Minister Egan, and President Harrison is inclined to ignore Minister Montt. The trouble is focusing to a war point. The counsels of peace may prevail, but it is feared this country must engage in war. The way out without a fight is not plain. In this emergency the old flag waves over 65,000,000 American people and there is not a disloyal man between the oceans. The cause of the country is the cause of the individual. The war for national honor is the issue which will command universal support. No laggards on American soil.

THE OMNIPRESENT BACCILLI.

It's no use arguing the question, the insects want the earth and its fullness thereof and seem likely to get it. The scientists go on discovering baccilli and no man finds out what will kill them except it also kill the man who has them. Two meddlesome Frenchmen in a Paris hospital made a post mortem examination of a man who died of a mysterious disease and this is what they found in his congested pancreas and liver:

In the fatty material were small, short baccilli well stained by Loeffler's blue. They were a little longer than bread, had rounded ends not well stained by Gram's method. In the necrotic areas the masses of baccilli could be distinctly seen; they were also found in the more normal tissue, but they were not to be found in the healthy parts. In cultures, in which it was an easy matter to obtain pure growths the organism was found as a short, motile rod, which might be isolated, arranged in pairs or grouped in chains of ten or fifteen, or even more. These chains moved slowly, with a wavy-like motion. Unstained, they had the appearance of a figure eight, or were dumb-bell shaped, and were surrounded by a delicate, clear zone, which appeared to be a kind of envelope, though it was impossible to demonstrate the existence of a capsule by staining methods. The organism grows either aerobically or anaerobically. It causes cloudiness in broth after twenty-four hours, forming at the bottom of the flask a sick, pale, flocculent deposit.

Supposably the pharmacists will know about Loeffler's blue, and how this German (doubtless) succeeding in dying the insects his favorite color. Gram was not so sucessful. Hopefully, G. will not be disheartened. He may get in ahead on some other lot. It seems dreadful to "culture" these death-dealing atoms, but in no other way could their versatile and accommodating nature be studied. Think of a "short motile rod, isolated, in pairs or grouped in chains" of dozens or scores—think of an uncountable number of these going up and down, hither and you with "a slow, wavy-like motion" through the human anatomy. That the baccilli will grow aerobically or anaerobically means the persistent varmints will flourish with or without oxygen (these exact terms are not found in the Century dictionary, but their approximates make the sense clear). It startles one a little to be told that the creatures "cause cloudiness in broth." But if they go on multiplying in kind and numbers at the present alarming rate, it may be best to utilize them in some manner if possible.

If these prying foreigners discover any more wigglers that the human system is prone to harbor and invite, will they be kind enough to confine their descriptions to medical journals. It's enough to make a person hate himself to death to be told these things, and despair entirely of the salvation and perpetuation of the human family. Perhaps, after all, the end of the world, so far as its inhabitants is concerned, is to come in this way and Tom Campbell's "last man" who stood on a cliff and delivered an oration before he jumped off, foreshadows the last worm-eaten relic of the doomed race.

The "spell of weather" which has decorated Northwestern cities with snow this week appears to have been widespread. New York welcomed the cold wave because, the World says, "it removed a prevailing apprehension that New York would be obliged to depend on Galveston or New Orleans for its next summer's supply of ice," and the St. Louis Republic apologizes for that city's street-cleaning service failure to meet the mid-winter emergency by saying, "Fourteen inches of snow is almost an unheard-of tax on our street department."

"A dispatch from Des Moines, Ia., states that from this time forth Gov. Boies is in the field as a presidential candidate. This is a privilege that belongs to every citizen of the United States who is 35 years of age and upward."—Boston Herald. Beg pardon. It is not the privilege of "every citizen of the United States who is," etc. It is not the privilege of any naturalized citizen to be the president, and consequently it is not his privilege, in the right sense of the word, to be a presidential candidate.

The New York Evening Sun talks about something which occurred "out on the Kaw river, in Ohio." Well, the democratic convention did not go to the Kaw river, nor did it come to Ohio, but if there is any other reason for locating that classic stream in the Buckeye state it is not known hereabouts. Perhaps it is laid down in that geography the New York school-book trust has issued.

An exchange is anxious some one should be delegated to hold on to Secretary Tracy's coat-tails. That privilege is vested in congress, brother, and is exercised, on occasion. No executives of the United States, in the cabinet or White House, can tumble over the edge of diplomacy, and drag this country after them into war. The constitution of the United States has put their coat-tails in the hands of congress.

The Czar's income is $25,000 per day. The Empress of Russia, on the occasion of her silver wedding was presented an ermine mantle which cost over $50,000, by the nobility of the province of Kherson. Perhaps we ought to be taking up penny subscriptions in this country to aid the czar and czarina to feed their people.

Crain, of Texas, has been interviewed by a New York Recorder man and says Congressman Springer is mistaken as to coming silver legislation. "A free coinage bill," says Crain, of Texas, "will be passed within thirty days by the house." Dollars to buttons Mr. Crain is mistaken.

Arrests were made on the Fifth Avenue cab line, New York, the other day, for cruelty to the horses. An attempt was made to complain to Col. Shepard, president of the company, but he was busy selecting bible texts for his newspaper, and could not be seen.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., claims to have a freak in a man who has been asleep two years, and the Indianapolis Sentinel supposes the man is in training for a position on the staff of the New York Sun.

Whatever Mr. Cleveland has gone south to shoot he has made it manifest through his interview with the New Orleans reporter that he is not going to shoot off his mouth down there.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Gas Certificates versus Bonds.

To the Editor. I was quoted yesterday as opposed to the pipe line refunding scheme.

Should not every taxpayer be?

These contractors took these certificates for their work and did a great and profitable business in doing so. They now find no demand for their certificates, and ask the city to refund them, dollar for dollar, when they have heretofore been glad to get 75 cents for them.

What committee, what council, what citizen, will give out of the poor man's or the rich man's purse $75,000 or $100,000 to these contractors and their friends?

The trustees need to show up what they have done and what they can do to a much better advantage than they have so far if they expect to get another cent of the taxpayers' money.

The statement of the trustees as printed in the Bee shows a recklessness unheard of in any country.

Did one of them ever stop to consider where they began, or where such a beginning would land a company or a city, even after a million had been put into it?

The manner of doing things may not be half shown in their statement, but enough is given to show the parties are not doing business on a basis that will succeed.

It is surprising to have them tell the taxpayers they will be able to repay this money when their gross receipts so far have been only $85,419.

It is not convincing that they will get us rich, doing a pumping business, when they say they are furnishing now 10,000,000 feet per day. If so, where is the pay for it? Will the pay be better if the gas is pumped? Will the pumps bring it when purchased and when paid for? For this answer I refer you to the Pittsburg operators, some of whom have put in three-feet mains made of steel.

Ask the Southwestern Natural Gas company how much gas our trustees would get by putting in a $20,000 pumping plant. They have tried it and can tell.

I am satisfied that fully 80 per cent. of the taxpayers in Toledo do not now believe in the gas business that Toledo is now engaged in, and that they do not do themselves or the city justice by sitting quiet and letting it continue.

TAXPAYER.

Toledo, Jan. 23.

A Matter of Hind-Sight.

To the Editor: It begins to dawn on us poor men who are to pay the increased taxes that the right time to have gone out of the city pipe line business was when the trustees could have gotten back what they had expended and then, so long as gas lasted, got all that was needed for us and for the factories we were working at the time.

We now find the offer then made as to price was fair and as low as it could be furnished and that it would have been a good thing to have accepted the offer rather than to let the gas gone to cities near by.

If to-day the people of the city of Toledo were to be asked to vote for a pipe line to be managed by men having no experience in the business, who are all engaged in other occupations, giving once a week a few hours to the management of over a million of dollars, how would the vote stand? Would any one but those drawing pay in some way vote yes? I say not one.

Can any city afford to go into the fuel, the baking, the horse shoeing or into the farming business? All three are legitimate, but not what cities were incorporated to do, and the sooner this is learned the less it will cost us taxpayers.

CITIZEN.

INDIANA REPUBLICANS.

The State Committee to Whoop It Up for Harrison.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 23.—The delegate conventions in the 13 congressional districts of Indiana yesterday selected the following state committee: First district, J. A. Hemmingway, Boonville; second, J. G. Bilkheimer, Washington; third, C. G. Carter, Seymour; fourth, A. E. Nowlin, Lawrenceburg; fifth, Jesse Overstreet, Franklin; sixth, Frank Eider, Muncie; seventh, J. W. Hess, Indianapolis; eighth, Nicholas Filbeck, Terre Haute; ninth, C. C. Shirley, Kokomo; tenth, Charles Harley, Delphi; eleventh, Geo. Osborne, Marion; twelfth, H. C. Hanna, Fort Wayne; thirteenth, G. L. Beck, South Bend.

Eleven of the members are outspoken for President Harrison, while Hemmingway, of the First district, and Hanna, of the Twelfth, have agreed not to antagonize him.

In every district resolutions were passed indorsing the administration, and in nine of the thirteen districts resolutions were passed declaring for a renomination.

QUAY AND THE POST.

The Case to be Taken to the Supreme Court.

Pittsburg, Jan. 23.—The jury found the Post guilty of libeling Senator Quay.

The Post has a long editorial on the result of the libel suit. It concludes as follows:

"So firmly are we convinced of this injustice and wrong, of the tremendous possibilities of evil and oppression, insuparable from a pernicious system, that the Post will protest against it in the highest courts of the country. The future usefulness and liberty of the press to combat wrong in high places is involved in this issue. It exists in no other state of the union than Pennsylvania. It is a relic of despotism."

ELECTION CASE.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The house committee on elections has heard arguments in the Craig v. Stewart contested election case from the Twenty-fourth Pennsylvania district.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Few people are aware of the fact that Pope Leo XIII holds the rank of general in the army of the new republic of Brazil.

The young Khedive is only 18, but he knows lots more than many a college man who has been "plucked" for his "great go."

The late Cardinal Manning was the first Englishman to receive the scarlet hat since the time of Cardinal Wolsey and the Reformation.

Bishop Brooks, of Massachusetts, has thrown himself into his duties with such earnestness for the last few weeks that his health is beginning to suffer.

J. Malcolm Forbes, the wealthy Boston yachtsman, has bought Arion, a 2-year-old colt, for $150,000. This is the highest-priced piece of horseflesh ever heard of.

Edwin Booth's step is less brisk, he bends more at the shoulders, and his eyes have lost their lustre. He is sensitive on the subject of his health, and his friends avoid talking about it.

Prince George is no more like the late Duke of Clarence than a bottle of champagne is like a glass of water. He is full of fun, high spirited, quick witted, free and easy, a typical naval officer of the good old times.

Robert Earl, whom Gov. Flower has appointed chief judge of the New York court of appeals, was elected a judge of that court in 1869 and again in 1875. Since the latter year he has been in that position continuously.

President George Gunton, of the Institute of Social Economics, New York, was at one time a Lancashire factory operative and on coming to this country took up the cause of labor reform and drifted into newspaper work in a New England city.

F. Hopkinson Smith, the artist, author and engineer, is a man of 53 years, somewhat above the ordinary height, with irongray hair and the mustache of a military man. His eyes are dark and piercing and look out from under thick, dark brows.

The Glasgow (Scotland) Herald gives the following as the 12 greatest American poets in the order named: Edgar Allan Poe; second, R. W. Emerson; third, James R. Lowell; fourth, J. Rodman Drake; fifth, Henry W. Longfellow; sixth, William C. Bryant; seventh, Oliver Wendell Holmes; eighth, John G. Whittier; ninth, George P. Morris; tenth, Thomas B. Read; eleventh, Walt Whitman; twelfth, Bayard Taylor.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That the new horse remedy company will organize this afternoon.

That Toledo's pastors have chosen some peculiar titles for their sermons to-morrow.

That livery horses have had more than their share of work during the sleighing period.

That the thaw has developed the leaks in the roofs, and repairers may expect jobs at once.

That the soft spell causes a cessation of the run on the infirmary department for a brief time.

That Alderman Degman still lingers here, but will be off for his visit to Ireland in a few days.

That press delegates will be made to feel they are in the hands of their friends when they reach Toledo.

That Guy Kinney has a way of putting things that draws blood, especially when gas finances are under discussion.

That real estate men are wishing for the opening of spring; there are several important deals ready to close up.

That Jim Wade has shied his castor into the ring for the police clerkship. What's that about democratic office-seekers?

That Judge Sala and the Mayor are not such boon companions as they were formerly, in fact, "we do not speak as we pass by." Selah.

That republican papers would be terribly disturbed about the filthy condition of the streets if a democrat held the office of street commissioner.

That Street Commissioner Bower could spend a little time between calls directing the cleaning of some of the dirty crosswalks in the center of the city.

That Toledo democrats are satisfied with the selection of Chicago for the National convention, though state pride gave Cincinnati the call among them.

That the gas certificate business proved too heavy a subject to finish up in one evening, so the ways and means committee took a little time to digest the problem.

That Toledoans ought to be reasonably well informed, as scarcely a night passes without a club meeting of some sort, at which interesting and instructive subjects are discussed.

That the proposition to bond the city for the gas certificates has brought out considerable information that has not heretofore been given to the public. For instance, the fact of the decrease of the pressure to the amount of over two hundred pounds.

Don't Suggest It, Please.

Minister Ryan wants congress to return the trophies of war captured from the Mexicans. Here is a beautiful opportunity for one J. B. Foraker, who first gained wide notoriety by howling at a suggestion of a similar nature made by President Cleveland to emerge from the gloom which is slowly engulfing him and utter one final, world-pervading yawp before his total disappearance.—Chicago News.

Unfortunate Quotation.

Editor Dana's luminous publication apostrophizes Senator Hill, closing the gems thus:

Hail to thee, thane of Glamis!
Hail to thee, thane of Cowdor!
All hail, Macbeth, that shall be king hereafter.

Well, Macbeth didn't get the nomination, did he?—Chicago Mail.

Peculiar Patriotism.

Whatever the degree of real intention in the democratic program of economy and retrenchment, the republican disposition to characterize such a program as ridiculous and unnecessary is certainly, in the present condition of national finances, the revelation of a most peculiar conception of the requirements of patriotism.—Providence Journal.

The Sentinel's Dark Horse.

Tom Reed predicts that the next republican convention will be a repetition of that of 1880—a struggle between the friends of Blaine and Harrison and a sudden dash to victory by a dark horse. Keep your eye on Col. Abe Slupsky, of St. Louis.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

And Will Hold On.

Superintendent of the Census Porter is reported as wriggling vigorously to get away from Mr. Anderson's resolution of investigation. Unless appearances are deceptive the ferret from West Virginia still has him by the nape of the back.—New York Telegram.

All Sub-Statesmen Forget It.

Some of our statesmen should recollect that matters of international rights are not questions of politics, but patriotism. —Mahanoy City Tribune.

Two Straight Truths.

The democratic party is clearly stronger than any machine element within it. The reverse is true of the republican party, especially at this juncture.—Milwaukee Journal.

Gorman's Maryland.

Senator Gorman can sing "Maryland, My Maryland." He can, likewise, waltz back to the United States senate for six years more.—Boston Herald.

Reed's Present Occupation.

The house is going to be a deliberative body this session, and Tom Reed will have plenty of time for deliberation.—Atlanta Journal.

A Good Suggestion.

It is suspected that the administration will shed Chile over and use it for a coaling station.—Philadelphia Record.

THE ELECTION LAWS.

Amendments Being Considered by the Different Boards.

Some time ago Secretary Harry E. King, of the board of elections, received a communication from the secretary of the Cleveland board, urging quadrennial registration, and soliciting the co-operation of the Toledo board to this end.

Mr. King replied that the Toledo board would be glad to indorse any steps tending to reduce election expenses and at the same time comply with the objects of the new law. A few days ago Mr. King received the following letter from Secretary Salem, of the Cleveland board, in regard to the matter, which explains itself:

H. E. King, Esq.:

Dear Sir—The Cleveland board has decided to drop the 4-year registration matter. We found that there was a vast amount of opposition to it among the legislators and that it would stand a very poor chance of being passed.

The entire cost of printing ballots for the 170 precincts of this county was but $240, and it is hardly worth while to bother with the amendment cutting down the quantity.

It would be a great relief to lengthen the time limit in which nominations must be filed. It certainly ought to be twelve days, as in the fall. We will gladly aid you in any effort in this direction.

Your suggestion to have the special registration conducted in the rooms of the board can hardly be entertained here. We would have to hire quarters and a big clerical force, and, as near as I can figure it, the expense would be as great as that of the present system. Besides, the inconvenience to the voters, in outlying wards especially; the interference with the work of the registrars, lessening the responsibility for honest registration, and the great annoyance to the board and its officers all argue against the proposition. There were over 4,000 persons registered here in the spring of 1891. Think of the force and labor required to make that number of entries, transfers, and signatures in 136 sets of books! It simply couldn't be done as perfectly and at the same expense as at present.

We have had two amendments introduced in the legislature. One amends Sec. 2926 E (Penalty for violation of laws of Registration). This we found necessary as the old penalty clause was upset by our courts. The other amends Sec. 9 of the Ballot law, raising the pay of township officers to $3 per day and allowing presiding judges in city precincts $1 for calling for sealed packages. This will undoubtedly meet your approbation and we trust you will indorse both to your legislators.

Sincerely yours,
CHAS. P. SALEM,
Secretary Cleveland Board.

TOOK A LONG NAP.

Virginia, Ill., Jan. 23.—After an 11-day nap, John Roberts, the sleeper confined in the county jail, is beginning to wake up. Yesterday he was able to sit up, and by signs made known that he understood what was going on about him. He is very weak and refuses to talk. Nothing can be obtained from him as yet as to his long sleep.

CONDITION OF TRADE.

Much Confidence Felt in the Future.

A Weekly Review of Trade Shows a Splendid Field for Business in All Branches.

New York, Jan. 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Reports from every part of the country express even greater confidence than before in the prospects of trade, while in some lines definite though gradual improvement is already seen. Rumors of coming war have during the past week had not substance enough to affect money markets or trade in the least.

The markets for staple products have been undisturbed by speculation, which is held in check by the enormous supplies. Wheat advanced 1 1-4c, and receipts at the west have been lighter owing to severe weather, but exports continue large. Corn is coming forward very freely and has declined 1 1-2c, and exports for the week will probably be very heavy. Oats are 1-4c lower, but pork products are a shade stronger. Oil has declined 1-2 a cent and coffee advanced 1-4c. In other markets no important change in prices is noticed, though increasing strength is reported in the markets for iron and steel products. Speculation in cotton has taken courage from the fact that receipts have recently declined, and the improving market caused a better tone at many southern points.

Annual reports of many other industries show that the production in 1891 has rarely, if ever, been equaled, and that the new year begins with no prospect of decrease in any important industry. Even the wool manufacture appears to have used more wool last year than in any previous year, imports having been the largest on record.

In woolens there is considerable return demand for spring goods, and the opening of many styles of men's wear for the following season is met thus far by good orders. An excellent business is done by jobbers in cotton goods; and in the medium and cheaper grades unprecedented, and knit goods are fairly strong.

Reports from all the country centers show ample supplies, an easier market, and except at the south a comparatively light demand with fair or good collections. Merchandise exports from New York in three weeks have been 43.8 per cent greater in value than for the same weeks last year, while in imports there has been a slight decrease; the enormous excess of exports still continuing leads many to believe that more gold must soon be imported.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number 328, as compared with totals of 330 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 411.

THE LECTURE LAST NIGHT

In the University Extension Course Was Well Patronized.

Toledo is proud of herself, and with good reason. Hereafter when a disappointed seeker after patronage characterizes our city as "a negro minstrel town," we shall "point with pride" to the indorsement our citizens have given the course of University Extension lectures this winter, and base thereon our claim to be considered people who appreciate higher things.

The second of Prof. Adams' lectures was listened to by a large audience, quite as many being in attendance as at the first meeting, and almost altogether the same people. This shows Prof. Compton was correct in thinking the most of those at the first lecture had secured course tickets. While each lecture is complete in itself, it is inevitable that a line of thought and reasoning runs through them all, since they are by the one lecturer and on the one topic, which is much more clearly apprehended by those who hear all the lectures of the course.

Prof. Adams' subject last evening and the outline of its treatment were given in yesterday's Bee. The study class was formed at the close of the lecture, and about 100 ladies and gentlemen remained. Topics for written papers on the first lecture were distributed and questions on the second lecture were sent up to Prof. Adams.

In this second relation with an audience Prof. Adams is at his best, and the study classes will prove of great value. The greater part of the questions were answered clearly and with a force that emphasized the most important points in the lecture. The variey of thought brought out by the lecture was indicated by the questions, some of which were in substance as follows: "Will electricity become a substitute for steam in inland transportation?" "Did the ancient Egyptians and Assyrians use their canals for transportation as well as irrigation?" "You say monopoly is not necessarily bad—it depends altogether on how they are managed. What do you mean by saying the railroads are in irresponsible hands?" "Can the government control railroads without owning them?" and a question on free trade versus protection, which brought out this answer: "Trade, to realize its best results, can have no political boundaries." Prof. Adams is of opinion government can control, without owning, the railways. This opinion will be explained at length in a coming lecture. Prof. Adams, it will be remembered, is the statistician of the interstate commerce commission, and specially well informed on the railway problem.

BEET SUGAR FACTORIES.

Muscatine, Ia., Jan. 23.—Muscatine will have the first beet sugar factory in Iowa. During the past three days a committee of citizens have raised $160,000 to accept a proposition of a California syndicate to build a $500,000 sugar plant to be erected this summer and be ready to operate next fall.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Michael Morearty was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary last night for shooting Policeman George Schlinger, on the night of Oct. 7, 1891. The jury reached a verdict at 8:30 after having been out four hours.

DEATH AT TIFFIN.

Tiffin, O., Jan. 23.—(Special)—Mrs. Frank L. Emich died this morning of heart disease, aged 34 years. Her maiden name was Mary Keubler, and her husband is a prominent grocer.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES.

New Century Club Elects Officers—Notes and Announcements.

The annual meeting of the New Century club was held last evening, with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bissell, 1861 Summit street. In the absence of the president, Mr. J. B. Battelle presided over the meeting, the minutes of which were kept by Secretary J. E. Bennett.

The program was an informal one, as is usual on the annual meeting night, and the evening was very pleasantly spent. Election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. F. D. Jermain; vice president, Mr. J. B. Battelle; secretary, Miss Mary Law; assistant secretary, Mrs. A. P. Stevens; executive committee, Mrs. R. L. Segur, Mrs. M. M. Cronise, Mr. Henry B. Tillinghast.

While the University Extension lectures are being delivered on Friday evenings the New Century club will meet on Tuesday evenings. The next meeting will be on the evening of February 2, at the Hotel Madison, with Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Scott. The paper of the evening will be by Mr. Scott; subject to be announced.

So many of the Isabella Reading circle are ill, or have sickness in their families, that the postponed meeting of the circle will not be held in January. The next meeting of the circle will be on Tuesday afternoon, February 16, with Mrs. H. C. Cotter, 538 Western avenue. Miss Helen Nolan will read the paper.

The Ramabai circle did not meet this week, on account of illness of members. The monthly meeting for February will be with Mrs. Louise Eck, Madison street, Wednesday afternoon, February 17.

The Political Equality club is in session this afternoon, with Mrs. Geo. Beeley, Tenth street.

Rev. Jeannette Olmstead will read the paper for discussion at the Colloquial club next Friday afternoon.

Members of the various literary clubs of the city anticipate an evening of great pleasure, in listening to Rev. Charles Cravens' lecture on "Lear." It will be given in Memorial hall annex on Monday evening, February 8.

TUMOR ON HIS BRAIN.

Post Mortem Evidence Will Be Used in a Big Law Suit.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 23.—Michael Troutman, a capitalist, died yesterday. A post mortem revealed a big tumor on the brain. It will prove important evidence in a big law suit involving a $150,000 farm.

A few weeks before his last illness Mr. Troutman sold the farm for $20 per acre, when he had a cash offer of $30. It is claimed he was insane and an effort is being made to recover the land, which is situated in Coles county.

TROUBLE AHEAD.

New York, Jan. 23.—The Herald's dispatch from Mendoza says that several deputies of the provincial chamber met at the house of Dr. Suarez, Thursday night. The house was attacked by a mob of armed men and a desperate fight ensued.

Senor Navajos, secretary of the chamber of deputies, was killed and Dr. Suarez and others seriously injured in the fight. Friends of the men who were assailed have armed themselves and declaring they will have revenge, are patrolling the streets.

STREET CARS COLLIDE.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 23.—Shortly before midnight last night two cars on the Manchester electric line came together in Allegheny and gave the passengers a pretty bad shaking up. Some blood was spilled, but no one was seriously injured.

One car was derailed and the other badly smashed.

Many a life has been lost because of the taste of cod-liver oil.

If Scott's Emulsion did nothing more than take that taste away, it would save the lives of some at least of those that put off too long the means of recovery.

It does more. It is half-digested already. It slips through the stomach as if by stealth. It goes to make strength when cod-liver oil would be a burden.

What La Grippe Really Is—Where It Originated—How It is Propagated and the Way by Which It Can be Avoided.

It has, at last, been discovered and definitely settled just what "La Grippe" is, and how it first started.

It is an infection, low fever, and it originated in Asia from the wet marshes around Bokhara. Thence it was taken to Russia by the traders who came from the crowded bazars of the Asiatic capital. From Europe it came to America, and here the germs are to-day and the fever raging.

Being a fever, it arises, as all fevers do, from a weakened and run down condition of the system, hence some people have it and others do not. Some have it severely and others mildly, but in every case it is due, as all fevers are, to a disordered and weakened kidney and liver. No man or woman whose kidneys are in perfect or strong condition ever had the grippe, even with the worst exposure, and no one ever suffered with it whose kidneys and liver were not out of order. In writing on this subject, which is one of the most important now before the people, the New York Herald gives, in a recent issue, some good advice. It says: "All classes should avoid crowded assemblages, avoid over-exertion, and see that their systems are toned up and built up."

This is common sense. But it is not always easy to do. One can easily say "Tone up the system, strengthen the kidneys and liver"—but how? There has never been but one standard remedy for strengthening and restoring these great organs, and that is Warner's Safe Cure. You know that, if you stop to think, if you refresh your memory and recall how many people you have heard speak favorably of it, who have perhaps told you what it has done for them. It goes directly to the seat of most physical trouble and all possible grippe. It strengthens, it renews, it fortifies these great organs, and thus when the germs of grippe come to the system, they are unable to find a lodgment, and are killed before they can propagate.

The foregoing facts are fully indorsed by the most eminent physicians, both abroad and in America: Dr. Gustav Webber, of the royal court of Germany; Dr. Hoesch, of Berlin; Dr. William Edward Robson, of the royal navy, England; Dr. Andrew Wilson, of the Royal Society of Edinburgh, and most broad-minded and liberal physicians in America, have unhesitatingly affirmed the same.

You who read this article are in danger of contracting the grippe, which may leave its painful and baneful effects upon your system unless you are in a strong, a healthy and vigorous condition to-day. If you feel languid, restless, irritable, despondent, if your appetite is uncertain, your rest broken; if you feel any signs of feverishness or chilliness, you need to take immediate steps against it. You need to fortify your kidneys and liver, and you can do so absolutely in but one way and that is by the aid of the great cure above named.

BUDDHA'S IDEA OF GOD.

Before beginning, and without an end,
As space eternal and as surety sure,
Is fixed a power divine which moves to good,
Only its laws endure.

* * * * * * *

It will not be contemned of any one;
Who thwarts it loses, and who serves it gains;
The hidden good it pays with peace and bliss,
The hidden ill with pains.

It seeth everywhere and marketh all;
Do right—it recompenseth; do wrong—
The equal recribution must be made,
Though Dharma tarry long.

It knows not wrath or pardon; utter, true
Its measures mete, its faultless balance weighs;
Times are as nought, to-morrow it will judge,
Or after many days.

Buy this the slayer's knife did stab himself;
The unjust judge has lost his own defender;
The false tongue doomed its lie; the creeping thief
And spoiler rob to render.

Such is the law which moves to righteousness,
Which none at least can turn aside or stay;
The heart of it is love, the end of it
Is peace and consummation sweet. Obey!

WEATHER OF THE WEEK.

Storm After Storm is the Program.

January to Go Out in a Blizzard.

Interesting Speculation as to What is in Store for the People of the Land in the Next Few Days.

Copyrighted, 1892, by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 23.—My last letter gave forecasts of two storm waves, one to cross the continent from January 18th to 23d, and the other from 24th to 29th.

The next storm wave following these will be due to reach the California coast about January 31st, cross the western mountains by the close of February 1, the great central valleys from 2d to 4th and the eastern states about the 5th.

This will be one of the fiercest storms of the winter west of the Mississippi river, especially on February 2d and 3d. It will affect the whole country between St. Louis and Denver and from Mexico to Minnesota. A snow storm, a blizzard, gales and drifting snows may be expected. The cold wave will enter the upper Missouri valley about the 3d, and its effects will be felt far into the southern states, causing cold weather, as it moves eastward, all over the country from Colorado to Maine. This cold wave will probably reach Florida about the 4th or 5th.

After passing east of the Mississippi both the storm center and the cold wave will lose force. The cold, however, will be quite severe in the region of the upper lakes about the 4th or 5th, but not so cold in the northwestern states.

The New Philosophy.

The electric theory of creation, astronomy and meteorology is rapidly cutting its way to the front. For fifteen years a half dozen meteorologists in the United States have been waging a ceaseless conflict with orthodox scientists as to the cause of motion. Following after the nebular theory the scientific world builded a great structure containing sciences, all based on the idea that heat is the cause of motion.

A few of us have contended that electricity is the cause or motion and that heat is only an effect of which electricity is the cause. In this contest we have been ridiculed and called all manner of contemptible names. We have constantly made progress and obtained a hearing and followers among the masses, who are now more intelligent, better educated than ever before in the world's history.

But every step has been stubbornly contested, and everything for the electric theory gained at the sacrifice of long and tedious efforts. The whole world of orthodox scientists begin to feel that they are in error and that we are in the right, but many of them are too cowardly to acknowledge the truth.

Occasionally one of these court scientists, most of whom are "book-learned dudes," proves his independence of thought by coming boldly to the front and declaring for the electric theory.

Prof. Bigelow is one of these. He is connected with one of the eastern universities, and although he is too selfish to acknowledge that others, long before he saw the light of truth, had discovered that nature works through electric forces, still he deserves commendation for refusing longer to follow the heat theory.

Prof. Bigelow, in a recent paper, declares that the sun is a magnet and that the solar corona consists of the electric currents that flow out from the sun over its equator, and after forming a semi-circle in space, flow back to the sun at the poles. He does not describe it in exactly these words, but his description coincides with these ideas.

Photographs of the eclipsed sun, reveal a fact that had been discovered by analysis many years ago, and Prof. Bigelow's discovery proves the electrical theory to be correct. But there are many old fogy meteorologists, astronomers and physicists, whose stock in trade would suffer great depreciation if they should give up the old nebular theory and its consequent, the heat theory of force, and therefore they, being convinced against their desires, will pretend to hold the same opinion still.

It is very inconvenient to change base, and although they will be forced to admit the existence of the sun's electric currents moving through space, they will be slow to admit that the sun is not hot. But what will they do with the fact that these electrical currents cannot exist in the presence of great heat?

A very serious difficulty in connection with these facts is that the weather bureau of the United States is operated on the heat theory, and it will never get out of that rut till it is driven out by vox populi. When a man, or set of men, have a good thing, they will not voluntarily exchange it for something that they do not understand, and unless the congress can be induced to recognize the electric system of meteorology, and to make a small appropriation for its support, no more progress will be made by the Washington weather bureau in the next 20 years, than has been made in the past 20.

The electric system of meteorology is not necessarily expensive. There need be no expense for telegraphing. Three meteorologists and a clerk can do all the work, and communications to all parts of our domain can be carried on through the mails. By this system, it is just as easy to forcast the weather one year in advance as one week in advance. The system needs perfecting, and for that purpose needs financial aid.

The work of such a department could be done at an expense of $24,000 a year, $12,000 for the forecast work and $12,000 incidental and experimental expenses. The appropriation for the weather bureau is about $800,000, and 3 per cent of that sum would support a department of electrical meteorology.

This is a matter for the consideration of those most interested to deal with. I do not feel disposed to make an effort for such an appropriation. I am not the interested party, for I am satisfied with my present work and the pay I receive for it. This is a question, however, that individuals, boards of trade, farmers' alliances, newspapers, etc., are constantly discussing, but without any concert of action.

Whatever action is taken should be harmonious and to a single purpose. The only way to effect anything is to agitate, bring every influence to bear through the press and otherwise on state legislatures and members of the congress. Ask for 3 per cent. of the whole amount appropriated to the weather bureau, that 3 per cent to be used in support of a department of electrical meteorology, with a view to securing long range weather forecasts.

Ask your state legislatures to instruct their senators, or address your senators and representatives in congress direct.

Except in a few isolated cases, the present weather bureau forecasts are of no benefit to agriculture, and under the system used, never can be of any great benefit. In fact, it is a positive damage to the great mass of producers and small dealers, because, at the expense of the government, information of the condition of the crops is carried to the great cereal trade centers, and this enables speculators to take advantage of all producers and of all the smaller dealers in these cereals. This probably cannot be remedied except by perfecting the long range forecasts, and furnishing information through the mails to all parts of the country at the same time, and far enough in advance to prevent the great speculators from taking advantage of producers and country dealers.

The whole scientific world is moving toward the electrical theory, but the present generation will well nigh have passed away before practical results can be attained, if we wait for the old school of scientists to unlearn what they have learned amiss. The old usually perishes with its errors, and the new is almost universally upheld by new hands.

TWENTY-SECOND ANNUAL

Report of the Sailors' and Soldiers' Orphans' Home.

A very complete report of the status of the Orphans' home at Xenia, for the year 1891, comes to the Bee, by courtesy of the matron, Mrs. Cora Day Young. On a fly leaf is an accurate map of the buildings showing heating, water, gas and sewage pipes. There are a number of fine full-page steel plates showing views of cottages, lawns, school buildings, etc. One of the most attractive of these is the lawn whereon are grouped "the girls of 1890." In the administration of the home besides the superintendent, Gen. C. L. Young, the matron, Mrs. Young and the hospital matron, Mrs. Hardesty, and three assistants, are 30 cottage matrons, financial officer, physician, editor Home Weekly, librarian, housekeeper, storekeeper and superintendent's clerk. In the educational department, under Prof. Dickson (who is, also, the editor), are 18 school teachers, with eight additional teachers in special branches, as follows: Domestic economy and cooking; cutting, sewing and dressmaking; writing, music, drawing, stenography and typewriting, teacher of military tactics and a band instructor. In the industrial departments are taught: Engineering, farming, tailoring, gardening, printing, shoemaking, carpentering, painting, tinning, plastering, blacksmithing, butchering and the dairy. The chiefs of these departments number 15, constituting a splendid educational force, where all the advantages of public school and manual training school combined are to be had. The home farm contains 293 acres, situated within a mile of Xenia.

Many needed improvements have been made during the past year. In Superintendent Young's report it is shown that there are 900 children in the home to-day, and 1,500 have come and gone during the past 18 months, yet no other community of such population can present so clean a bill of health. There are 205 children in county homes, maintained by the state.

It is safe to say this worthy institution was never under more efficient management than it is to-day. Superintendent and Matron Young are peculiarly fitted for such positions, not only in earnestness, conscientiousness and kindness, but in the high order of executive ability that is necessary for the best results. The report of '91 is a credit to the institution, the managers and to the state.

HOW BABIES SUFFER

From Torturing Humors

When their tender SKINS are literally ON FIRE with ITCHING AND BURNING ECZEMAS and other Itching, Scaly, and Blotchy Skin and Scalp Diseases, none but mothers realize.

To know that a single application of the Cuticura Remedies will, in the great majority of cases, afford instant and complete relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a permanent and economical (because so speedy) cure, and not to use them without a moment's delay, is to be guilty of positive inhumanity. No greater legacy can be bestowed upon a child than a skin without blemish and a body nourished with pure blood.

CUTICURA

Remedies are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies, are absolutely pure, and may be used from pimples to scrofula, from infancy to age, with the most gratifying and unfailing success.

TREATMENT.—CUTICURA, the great skin cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, externally, instantly allay the most intense itching, burning, and inflammation, soothe and heal raw and irritated surfaces, clear the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, and restore the hair, while CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood and skin purifier and greatest of humor remedies, cleanses the blood of all impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the cause.

"ALL ABOUT THE BLOOD, SKIN, SCALP, AND HAIR," mailed free to any address, 64 pages, 300 Diseases, 50 Illustrations, 100 Testimonials. A book of priceless value to mothers, affording information not obtainable elsewhere.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; CUTICURA SOAP, 25c.; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CORP'N, Boston, U. S. A.

Pimples, Blackheads, red, rough, and oily skin and hands, and simple humors and skin blemishes of infancy and childhood are prevented and cured by that most effective of all Skin Purifiers and Beautifiers, the celebrated Cuticura Soap. Incomparably superior to all other skin and complexion soaps, while rivalling in delicacy and purity the most expensive of toilet and nursery soaps. The only preventive of inflammation and clogging of the pores, the cause of most facial blemishes. Price, 25c.

CATARRH, so very common in this climate, is not a local disease as is generally supposed, but is constitutional, showing itself locally in some of the mucous membranes of the body, and to remove it permanently you have to remove the cause. In fact the only way of treating any disease is by removing the cause that produces it, and nature will do the rest. This is the manner in which we treat all diseases under our specialties and the secret of our success is in the ability to determine the starting point or cause of your trouble.

LETTERS FROM WOMEN

Who Are Active Members of the Bee Household,

And Here and There One from a Gentleman Friend.

The Best Education for "Her"—Good Words for the Little Ones—Our Long-Lost Imogen—Work for the Prize—Pleasant Chat All Around.

NEW EVERY MORNING.

Every day is a fresh beginning;
Every morn is the world made new;
You who are weary of sorrow and sinning,
Here is a beautiful hope for you;
A hope for me and a hope for you.

All the past things are past and over;
The tasks are done, and the tears are shed;
Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover;
Yesterday's wounds, which smarted and bled,
Are healed with the healing which night has shed.

Yesterday now is a part of forever,
Bound up in a sheaf, which God holds tight,
With glad days, and sad days, and bad days which never
Shall visit us more with their bloom and their blight,
Their fullness of sunshine or sorrowful night.

Let them go, since we cannot relieve them,
Cannot undo and cannot atone;
God in his mercy receive and forgive them;
Only the new days are our own;
To-day is ours, and to-day alone.

Every day is a fresh beginning;
Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain,
And spite of old sorrow and older sinning,
And puzzles forecasted and possible pain,
Take heart with the day, and begin again.
—Susan Coolidge.

TO MY L.

I soon must try, my dear, the long, long way,
From whence, oh, nevermore, may I return;
Clouds gather thickly round the closing day—
The brooding stars for me but dimly burn.

I hear the lonely night-bird's farewell song,
I see the drooping flowrets pale and die,
The hooded hours for me are dark and long,
As slowly, mutely they go trailing by.

So dark and long with cruel, ceaseless pain,
Yet sweet with love so fond, so true, and deep,
And heavenly peace and hope triumphant reign
Whilst thou, my darling, tender vigils keep.

Whilst thou and all the past—its grief and bliss,
Still hover near, to touch and stay the heart,
And swift receding visions whisper this—
Eternity shall fuller life impart.

Then coming night, and growing silence here
With their unfathomed mysteries so deep,
Unto my wasting soul may bring no fear,
Like trustful babe, in love, I fall asleep.

Asleep to toil, to care, and bitter grief,
But wakeful to the morrow's endless sun;
Asleep to earthly joys so bright but brief,
Awake to victory o'er the death-king won.

A Prize Offered.

One of the most attractive and interesting books of the season, beautifully bound and illustrated: "A Summer in Hawaii," by Helen Mather, will be given the writer of the best paper on the subject: "Partnership in the Family," to consist of not more than 600 words; the manuscript all to be in by March 15. Two literary members of the Bee staff, with the hostess, will form the committee of judges. Manuscript may be sent in one envelope and name (with address) in another, the latter not to be opened until the award is made. Address all communications to the Toledo Bee—Household Department. A second prize (a book) will be awarded, if the excellence of communications demands such judgment.

The Best Education for Women.

Sorosis held a "psychological" banquet recently and discussed the question of what education best fits a woman for the duties of life. That the members of the club were ladies was attested by the fact that no two of them agreed as to just what the education should really be. One would make it personal development, one literary culture, one physiological study, one domestic instruction, and so on. Carlyle has said that a "loving heart is the greatest teacher," and the scriptures note that "out of the heart proceed the issues of life." While the speakers may not have so put it, the members of Sorosis would undoubtedly all agree, if not about the "psychological" banquet board, then at their own firesides, that the education that really best fitted woman for life is an education of the heart.—Exchange.

Of course the man writer must have his little joke about the "ladies" not being able to "agree" upon what constitutes the proper education for woman. Men have been discussing this question six thousand years, more or less, and still it is not settled by any agreement on their part. The first woman attempted to settle it by informing herself, immediately, upon a forbidden subject. Woman's desire for education was thus early demonstrated, as well as her ability and perseverance to obtain it. According to accepted belief, she not only succeeded in overturning her creator's plans for the new-made world and its creatures, but she dragged her namby-pamby, sneaking husband into trouble with her and reduced him from a life of sportive ease to one of slavish toil. As said, her ability to accomplish stupendous things cannot be questioned.

It is not one of the things, but all of them, mentioned in the extract and more, that she must be educated to do, to fulfill the ideal of the modern man adviser. She must be a trained cook, a model housekeeper, an accomplished hostess, a careful and devoted mother, a worker in all charitable schemes, a good nurse, a companion for him whatever his tastes and hobbies—politics, base ball, horses, dogs or theosophy—these and more, in detail. Then she must be skilled in some self-supporting trade and profession, for she may one day have to earn a living for herself and her children.

And the young woman who could not gain a diploma in all these branches is not prepared for wifehood. She must compass these impossibilities during the years of her girlhood, because if she is pegging away after she is twenty-five years old, she is an "old maid."

This is no silly attempt to "make a case." You just club together the wise things you read about women and the advice that is heaped upon them till they can scarcely see out, and you will find it is no exaggeration. The difficulty with deciding upon the education best for a woman is, you can never know, or by any possibility surmise, what her life work is to be. You may educate her for home devotion and motherhood and the fates make of her a politician, a milliner or a preacher. You may educate her for an elocutionist or a prima donna and she will marry a shiftless fellow who cannot buy the flour which she couldn't make into bread if she had it. And so it goes. Woman must get her education, in a great measure, as the map of her life is unrolled before her and its necessities are presented. The education of her young years can only be general foundation work, that will, in a degree, fit her for after study and experience in whatever way it may come to her.

It is a mistake to say woman's most needed education is "of the heart." It is education of mind, will, judgment, patience and the practicalities of everyday living that she needs. She lives too much in her affections, puts too much heart-worry into the unavoidable experiences that are everywhere awaiting her.

There is one modern idea that is becoming pretty well impressed upon the younger generation of women, and that is, the value to themselves of a knowledge of the ordinary forms of business transactions. In a recent number of Harper's Bazar, T. W. H. (which stands for Thomas Wentworth Higginson, wherever anything kind and generous towards women is said), emphasizes this lack in woman's education:

I have always remembered how admirably a Boston merchant of the last generation discoursed in public on the propriety of explaining business affairs to women; but when this was mentioned years after to one of his daughters, she said, "I only wish he had applied it in his own family." A rich heiress, the daughter of an eminent financier, told me that she was herself absolutely ignorant of all money matters; after her father's death, her brothers had managed her affairs; then, "of course," her husband; but she herself knew absolutely nothing. It reminded me of another heiress I had known, who was twice married; the first husband lost two-thirds of her property; the second made away with the rest of it; and she supported herself and her child for the rest of her life—there being nothing left to tempt a third fortune-hunter—by giving public readings. One of the minor achievements of an eminent financier now under arrest in New York is stated to be that of sweeping in among his vast losses the whole property ($14,000) of two ladies, who had assigned to him certain stocks or certificates to be transferred for their benefit. Perhaps it would be unjust to call him a swindler, in this case, or to call those other men fortune-hunters; they may have expected better results; but certainly the absolute ignorance, absolute trust, and, one might almost say, absolute folly of many confiding women present a combined temptation which sometimes demoralizes the very elect.

A woman friend of the writer, who has learned through many bitter experiences, to take pretty good care of herself and what belongs to her, confessed that after her husband's death, she had worried for days about the simple transaction of going to a bank and getting a check cashed, and how thankful she was to the kind cashier who said, "Write your name across there, Madam," and pointed to the place.

VERSATILE WOMAN.

(A Surprised Man's Confession.)

"When I married my wife she had studied stenography,
Got that down solid then took up photography,
Mastered that science and started geography,
All in the course of a year.
She presently took up a course of theology,
Followed that up with a touch of mythology,
Got a degree in the line of zoology,
Still her great mind remained clear.

"So she took in a course on the theory of writing,
Some lessons and points on the subject of fighting,
A long course on house-building, heating and lighting,
For over her classmates she'd soar.
So she entered the subject of steam navigation,
Took also instruction in church education,
And mastered the study of impersonation,
And still she was longing for more.

"Next she tackled the latest fad, electricity,
Dress reform institutes taught her simplicity,
Sought the best way to encourage felicity,
O! she's as smart as a book!
She at last ended up with a course in phonetics,
Gave a little attention and time to athletics,
The rest of her leisure she gave to magnetics,
And now she is learning to cook!"

Words for the Little Ones.

"When children get into mischief for want of something better to do, spank the mothers." So quoted a member of the Household some two weeks ago. And there's surely "something in it." Now her is a sample of occupation which I have found a treasure. Whenever I find a "striking" picture in a newspaper, magazine, old book—yes, even in an almanac or catalogue, instead of burning it up with the rubbish, I lay it away in a little wooden box upon the sides of which are tacked leather handles—for the convenience of its seven-years'-old owner—and which is covered with a hinged lid. Oh, the treasures that have accumulated in that box during the past two years.

What gorgeous pictures have we not rescued from the old torn and tattered story books for children. And the great collection of art dragged forth from coffee papers and saleratus packages. The side splitting pictures from comic papers and almanacs. Now when master Ed has company to entertain and there is any reason why out door sports are unavailable, out comes the "Art Gallery." Can you imagine the opportunities for "variation" that said gallery contains? Here are snatches of the children's hilarious chat:

"Say, boys, let's make a happy family. Here's its father and mother. Now you boys hunt up some young ones for them."

"Here's a whole pack of young "uns."

"All right."

"They ought to have a uncle and a aunt."

"Here they are; and here's a dog for them, too."

"Yes, and I've found 'em a cat."

"And here's their cow."

"Oh, you don't want a cow in the house. Set it over under that other chair; that's the cow stable."

"There ought to be a calf with the cow; try an' find one."

"Here 'tis. Here 'tis good for you, bossy. Here's yer calf. Now don't hook."

And so they go on, and on, and on, and the mothers who are visiting in the next room grow happy with listening to the merry bustle. And finally a troop of happy youngsters come running in and lay violent but loving hands upon us and drag us to their corner and proudly exhibit to us their happy family. Our laughter adds immensely to the happiness of the little ones. And genuine and hearty are our laughs, for dull and rusty would be our sense of the ludicrous were not our mirth aroused at sight of that incongruous "happy family," with its grandmother a haughty, high-bred dame in dainty silken gown and fine lace cap with awe-inspiring spectacles, and at her side a grandpa in blue overalls and checkered shirt, kept together with one home-made suspender of good stout ticking. And oh! his boots and his hat.

The father of the family was one of our latter day politicians, brilliant, dignified, lofty. Oh, could he have seen the wife selected for him by the little imps. And could he have but seen the family that fell to his lot. Most of them "took after their mother" and were slatternly and slovenly and inferior looking. You would think that every tribe and tongue and nation and people on the globe were there.

Whatever may be said of our friend as a politician he was not a judicious father, for some of his children were bedecked in extravagant finery, while many of them wore unsightly rags.

When we all, little and big, had had enough of the "family" scene, a famous menagerie was "built" as they termed it.

Little recked the "builders" or "managers" that the parrot was larger than the elephant, that the calf and grown taller than the cow, and that the cat was by far the largest animal in the whole assortment. Not for a moment was their glee subdued or their noise hushed by the appalling sight of a rat five times as large as his neighbor the tiger. And right well were they satisfied to find somewhere in the art gallery a lion and a mouse of the same dimensions.

Oh, children! children! what trifles make you happy! Long may it last! And dear mothers, listen, and remember and ponder well, while I assure you that it is not in those moments of happiness and mirth that evil habits are acquired or evil lessons learned. Then ask yourselves, "Is it worth my while to take some pains to find occupation for my precious little ones?" AUNTIE TOILER.

Sandusky, O.

A Sermonette on Success.

To My Young Friends Who Read the Bee:

Pshaw! what's the use? Life is too short to seek after honor, fame, riches or glory. We live to-day, and to-morrow we die. Why not enjoy life? Young men, you are wrong in thinking thus. Don't handle the future in this manner. Having gained neither fame nor riches, I will not be able to trot in the class of "cranks" on the subject of success. Being one of the great many who were never rocked in the cradle of indulgence, or carressed in the lap of luxury, I am not prepared to treat the subject from that standpoint.

How much of this busy day do we loiter away, and waste time and let the hours go by misspent? "The night cometh when no man can work." Many young people make a mistake in saying if they only had leisure they could do many things. Get at work and plenty of time will be found. Success of failure, young men, which will you choose? We must all build a temple, and why not build one that will last through eternity? We must "learn to creep and then to leap," and as another has said, "to conquer the earth, like Caesar; to fall down and kiss it, like Brutus; or, like Nelson, to snatch the laurels from the doubtful hand of victory while she is hesitating where to bestow them."

As to what steps to take to further the cause of success, I will give them as I think is best. I would say consult some older heads. It is true that adversity may seem cold, but let us treat it as a friend, for many a time it has laid the foundation upon which some of our most successful men have built.

Above all things, let us seek the future by going direct to our Maker, as it is our first and last duty. God is supreme and we are made in His image and are subject to certain immutable laws. Whatever disappointment comes to you fight it soldier-like. If you are forced to retreat, look not upon it as defeat, but rather, right about, forward march, and fight the battle over. Resolve, if you have been idle heretofore, that commencing the new year you will waste no more time in idleness.

"Like a sawyer's work is life,
The present makes the flaw,
And the only field for strife
Is the inch before the saw."

Oh, the heighth and depth of mother love; there is nothing else in the world so fathomless. The old truism came to me with renewed force as I read of the German woman, who went, in good health, to a New York hospital, and had the skin taken from the upper surface of both her legs to be grafted upon the abdomen and thighs of her boy who had been robbed of his flesh covering by a terrible scalding. The account says the brave mother must remain quietly in bed for weeks, till a new skin forms. She shows no impatience, although she is the support of a family of little children at her home. The boy is doing well and will be able to leave the hospital not long after the mother. E.

For a hanging receptacle for children's playthings or papers, the matting that comes around teas can be bound with bright braid and made into any shape desirable. This matting can be had for little or nothing at any grocery store.

Representatives of the Working Girls' Club, of New York, to the number of 3,000 marched, drilled and danced at the Madison Square Garden, the other night, "without any men," so the reports say, and "assumed to have a good time." Here's to the New York working girls for their admirable independence. When men want a big kind of a time they have what refined society calls "a stag party." They are unhappily surprised to learn that women can flock by themselves and enjoy it, with no wine or cigars or loud stories for adjuncts.

"Only one little word;
But it stirred the depths of a living heart,
And there through the years and the changes of life,
With its blessing and glory, its darkness and strife,
The soul of that little word shall abide
And nevermore depart."

To remove the white spots from furniture, rub them with a cloth wet in weak spirits of camphor, and afterwards with a very little linseed oil.

A woman would rather sit all day in a car seat beside an old musty valise than have a woman in a calico dress beside her.

And she would prefer the musty valise or the calico woman either to the man saturated with strong drink or old pipe.

It is a little difficult to determine just when custard is sufficiently cooked. This will settle the point: Take a spoonful of the mixture and let it run back into the dish; if it leaves the spoon entirely, more cooking is necessary; should there be little specks upon the spoon, it is quite time to remove the "soft" custard from the stove.

Art thou poor, yet hast thou golden slumbers?
O sweet content!
Art thou rich, yet is thy mind perplexed?
O punishment!
Dost thou laugh to see how fools are vexed
To add to golden numbers golden numbers?
O sweet content!

Helen Campbell says that in New York there are 27,000 women in the city that support their husbands and more than 100,000 that take care of themselves.

The only American whom the king of Siam has ever deemed worthy to wear the decoration of the sacred white elephant is Gen. J. A. Halderman, of Kansas. The rarity of the honor conferred on him is indicated by the fact that only two other English-speaking persons, Queen Victoria and Sir Edwin Arnold, have been likewise distinguished by the favor of the oriental king.

Life among the Cowboys.

Dear Household—Have you all forgotten Imogen? She is one of the "far away" sisters who does not get home to the Household very often. Last night I was reading the "Bee" of January 7, in which Aunt Hepzibah says what do women want most? She says she would like to hear from each "Householder." I know this woman out here would like a new stirrup for her saddle and then time to exercise it, so that brings us back to the subject of time again, doesn't it?

One often meets with surprises out here on the range. Let me tell you a little something surprising a cowboy told me a few days ago. When they were working the range above here on the river, and holding the herd they had gathered each night, two cowboys, with others, came off from guard as they were relieved by those whose turn it was, and all spread down their beds around the camp-fire and prepared to retire. These two chaps were near each other, and so "made down" together. We will call them Jim and John. John had his festive couch quickly prepared and was watching Jim fix his. Jim seemed to have some comforters (suggins, or parkers they call them) which looked rather narrow. John says, "How's this? Jim only hooked a half a parker."

"Never mind, John," says Jim, "I've not got that one finished yet."

"Finished," says John, "you don't mean to say you made this? Come off Jim, you hooked a piece of a 'suggin' from a 'nester' (farmer).

"Now, see here, John," Jim replies, "I made this out of pieces from my worn-out pants—one can always get some good pieces out of worn-out garments, and then I've used some pieces out of the other boys clothes. Here is one all done," and he held up a nice comforter, all made of pieces of men's clothes, lined, stuffed with cotton and tied as if some woman had done it. "Now," he says, "come here," to my 'war bag' (sack with clothes in to change, which they carry in their bed in their pack) look here now and see this that I am working on when I get time at the ranch," and the two boys seated themselves on the grass and Jim spread out his "crazy work." Yes, sure enough crazy work of small pieces of silk and satin put together so the colors harmonized, and embroidered. He had a bundle of scraps of silk and satin not yet put together. Some of these his sister in her far away home had sent him and some he had bought in Kansas City, when he went up with his last train of beef cattle. One piece of satin in his crazy work he said he would remove because it did not harmonize wth the colors around and substitute another shade which would be just the thing."

Imagine it: Night on the boundless prairies, the immense herd of cattlemen riding around it, guarding the herd all night; these two cowboys spreading out crazy work on the grass and discussing the harmony of colors!

Often it strikes me so forcibly, how some of our customs here would seem strange in the settlements. Cowboys, and very good fellows they are, too, are as thick here as grasshoppers and often help us about the cooking, dry the dishes, etc. A day or two ago a cowboy was setting the dinner table for me; he amused me when he went to fill up the sugar bowl by asking me if I had a "reloading outfit for my sugar bowl." Spoke of it as if it was a shotgun.

TO THE MAN WHO DRINKS.

This is eighteen hundred and ninety-two,
I think it would pay to keep sober, don't you?
Please answer this question by a look in the glass,
The difference is plain, though you hurriedly pass.
One look shows a man that is fair to behold,
And one shows a phiz that is haggard and old;
One speaks of a peace that is born of good will,
And one shows the demon that's born of the still.

One is a man in the image of God,
And one, wisdom says, must "pass under the rod."
Affliction will torture the man who does wrong,
Deprive him of blessings, the pathway along,
And at last with the pity of friends, who are few,
He will pass out of sight with scarce an adieu;
Choose then, ere too late, the path of the wise,
Leave the cup that means death, and the life you'll despise.

Be a man, every inch of you, on from to-day,
And my word for it, man, you'll find it will pay.
Go out to your business, whatever it be,
With a step that is firm and a hand that is free;
Be your labor well done, giving pleasure to all—
On the other sad scene let the drop curtain fall.

A Good Baked Potato.

The Household has some constant readers and very faithful friends among the gentlemen, for which the members are certainly thankful and pleased. One of these, a family man, dropped in yesterday, with a bit of culinary experience he desired to share with us. "First," he said, "get your potatoes, good ones (grown in sandy soil, if possible), then wash and scrape them thoroughly clean, rinse and wipe them and smear their jackets well with first-quality butter. Put them on a tin in a reasonably quick oven, take them out when they are done and place a napkin about them in a serving dish. Cooked according to directions, you will not have any tough skin two or three layers thick to take off; you will want to eat it all.
N.

What Salt Will Do.

If the throat is very sore, wring a cloth out of cold salt water and bind it on the throat tightly when going to bed; cover it with a dry towel. This is excellent.

For neuralgia make a small muslin bag, fill it with salt, heat it very hot, and lay it against the aching place. It will prove a great relief, as salt retains the heat a long time.

For catarrh snuff up considerable salt and water from the hollow of the hand every morning. Salt and water, used as a gargle just before going to bed, strengthens the throat and helps to prevent bronchial troubles; it is also excellent for sore throat.

If ink is spilled on the carpet throw a quantity of salt on it, which will quickly absorb the ink; take this up and put on more salt. Keep repeating this, rubbing it well into the ink spot until the ink is all taken up by the salt, then brush the salt out of the carpet.

If soot falls upon the carpet or rug, do not attempt to sweep it until it has been covered thickly with dry salt; it can then be swept up properly, and not a stain or smear will be left.

A bit of salt taken by itself, directly after eating, will aid digestion.

Salt in the water where potatoes are boiled will make the vegetable flaky and palatable.

Chat.

Will Imogen hear the chorus of welcome that greets her return after her long absence? There are so many things of interest she has to tell us in her life, totally unlike anything in our own ordinary experiences. Here's hoping that she will get that new stirrup soon and time to use it and so can come oftener. Her little glimpse of cow-boy life is an illustration of what birth and bringing-up will do for a child wherever he may roam. There were homes and domesticity and refinement among his ancestry, near or remote or he would never be matching silk pieces for harmony of color at midnight on a Texas cattle ranch.

There's a deal of philosophy mixed up in Auntie Toiler's simple story. And while it seems to a person, ambitions in other lines, that it takes so much time to keep the little ones profitably engaged and to attend to their small wants and answer their persistent questions—remember, there is no nobler work given human hands to do, than to guide an immortal soul and help to mould the character of the "little men and women" of the world, and so soon they grow out of our reach. It must be unselfish, self-sacrificing work, but oh, the rich rewards not only when it is accomplished, but scattered all along like wayside blossoms. The dear little ones teach their teachers many a lesson in return. A letter from a devoted mother which Chat would like to print for the sweetness there is in it, tells what page of their study books each of her little ones has reached and every detail of school and home life. She concludes "the children are happy and hearty and we take a great deal of comfort with them."

The Household is glad when young men and women join the circle. What say our young readers to Grant's advice?

The Secret is Out.

Housekeepers are finding out that many baking powders contain ammonia; perhaps they have tested them; possibly they have caught the pungent and suggestive fumes from a "fresh" can of ammoniated powder. No wonder the manufacturers are afraid to let the people know what such powders are made of.

There is no "patent medicine" mystery about Cleveland's Baking Powder. It is not only free from ammonia and all adulterants, but the composition is plainly stated on every can. The materials are the best Science can produce, and a trial convinces any housekeeper that General Hurst (late Ohio Food Commissioner) was right in saying "Cleveland's is absolutely the best."

I Ask For Ayer's Hair Vigor for some time, and it has worked wonders for me. I was troubled with dandruff and falling hair, so that I was rapidly becoming bald; but since using the Vigor, my head is perfectly clear of dandruff, the hair has ceased coming out, and I now have a good growth, of the same color as when I was a young woman. I can heartily recommend the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor to any one suffering from dandruff or loss of hair."

WERE LOST AT SEA.

Two American Steamships Burned at Sea.

Probable That All Hands Were Lost.

Believed to be Tank Boats With Oil.

No Hope for Any of the Ill-fated Crew.

The Wrecks Were Sighted by Three Crafts, But Were Finally Abandoned to Their Fate on the Stormy Billows.

London, Jan. 23.—It was generally admitted to-day that there was no doubt that two American steamships have recently been burned at sea, and that it is probable that in both cases all on board lost their lives.

Three incoming steamers have reported passing burning steamers and the opinion expressed is that they were American tank steamers conveying petroleum to Europe.

But this fact is only well established in the case of one of the burned steamers; there are fears that the second vessel may yet prove to be a passenger steamer.

The last vessel to report passing one of the burning ships is the Egyptian Monarch, Capt. Irwin, of the Wilson line, which reached Gravesend to-day and is now unloading cattle at Depford.

Capt. Irwin says that he left New York on January 5 and that at 1 a. m. on January 6, in lat. 48 n. long. 19 w., he sighted a vessel, apparently an American steamer, which was on fire and burning furiously as though her cargo was petroleum.

Her masts were burned out, and clinging to the gear beneath her bowsprit were two men, apparently the last survivors of the crew. Capt. Irwin ordered one of his boats away, but the two men referred to dropped overboard and sank soon after they were made out.

In the hope that some of the burned steamer's boats might be found in the vicinity, Capt. Irwin steamed around the derelict during the afternoon and night of January 6. The next morning, as there was a heavy sea and little or no hope that open boats could have lived through the night, the Egyptian Monarch was put on her course and soon left the hulk smoking and flaring on the western horizon.

It is recalled in this connection that the British steamship Imperial Prince, which left New York on January 4, arrived at Portland yesterday on her way to Leith and that her commander, Capt. Cox, also reported having passed a burning steamer.

Capt. Cox said that he saw the derelict in lat. 48 N., and long. 19 W. This was during the morning of January 16. It will thus be seen that the Egyptian Monarch and Imperial Prince on January 16 sighted a burning vessel in exactly the same latitude and longitude.

Capt. Cox added that a heavy squall came up soon after the burning ship was sighted and that the atmosphere became so thick that the derelict was lost to view.

When the squall had blown over the burning steamer was no longer to be seen. Finally Capt. Cox expressed the opinion that all the burned steamer's crew must have perished, as no boats could have lived through the weather experienced at the time and after the ship must have been abandoned.

The above reports establish beyond doubt that a steamer was burned during the night of January 15, and that she was still afloat during part of the morning of January 16, and that she was destroyed by fire in lat. 48 N. and long. 19 W., or, say about 100 miles southwest of Cape Clear, south of Ireland.

The second vessel reported on fire was seen January 11, in lat. 43 N. and long. 42 W. She was seen by the commander of the British steamer City of Dundee; he described her as being a large steamer and that she had been abandoned.

The City of Dundee's commander could not see any boats, though he made seach of them, and came to the conclusion that, as there was a heavy sea on, that all hands had perished or that they had been picked up by a passing vessel.

The City of Dundee was from Norfolk, Va., and Newport News, Va., on January 5. This burned vessel was seen about ninety miles west of the Azore islands, and about one hundred and fifty miles southwest of where the Egyptian Monarch and Imperial Prince sighted a burning ship, hence it is concluded that two steamships, both said to be American, have been burned at sea with the loss of all hands.

The spot where the City of Dundee sighted a burning derelict may be said to be exactly half way between New York and the town of Oporto, in Portugal.

Inquiries made in shipping circles show that there are quite a number of petroleum laden vessels at sea bound from the United States for Europe. This number includes the Bear Creek, which left Philadelphia for London January 6; the tank steamer Loodonia, which sailed from New York for London December 6, with a crew of 38 men; the steamship Allegheny, which left New York on January 1 for Marseilles. She carried a crew of 35 men. The tank steamship Willkomen, from New York on January 6, is also at sea with 34 men on board.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

WAITING FOR VOORHEES.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The postponed hearing before the senate committee on the judiciary in the case of Judge Woods, opposition to whose nomination to the Fifth judicial circuit has caused the committee to delay action on all the nominations of circuit judges sent to the senate by President Harrison, did not take place yesterday for the same reason that caused its postponement from the last meeting of the committee—absence of Senator Voorhees of Indiana, who has made charges against the integrity of Judge Woods.

Don't irritate your lungs with a stubborn cough, when a remedy, safe and certain as Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant can be so easily procured. Sore throats and lungs are helped speedily by it.

KILLED BY AN EXPLOSION.

New York, Jan. 23.—The premature explosion of a blast at 224 East Eighty-fifth street killed two persons and seriously injured three others.

The killed are James Dooley, aged 40; James Cox, aged 41. The injured are Charlotte F. Wilson, aged 31; James Kennedy, aged 48; Tony Rosa, aged 35; all of this city.

BURNED AT SCHOOL.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 23.—Lizzie Kurz, aged 6 years, was fatally burned in the public school at Kurtstown yesterday by her dress catching fire from a stove. The two lady teachers had their hands badly burned while extinguishing the flames.

Simmons Liver Regulator, bear in mind, is not an experiment. It is indorsed by thousands.

DIED FROM THE GRIP.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Jan. 23.—Hon. Jos. Fichner died here last night from the grip. He was 65 years of age and was the last associate judge on the bench in Blair county.

For coughs and throat troubles use Brown's Bronchial Troches.—"They stop an attack of my asthma cough very promptly."—C. Falch, Miamiville, Ohio.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Good Attractions for Toledo Next Week.

Modjeska in "Mary Stuart" Alexander Salvini—Revival of "The Two Orphans"—The Wilburs—General Dramatic News.

Speaking of actors as authors, says the Epoch, it is quite surprising how many stage favorites there are who can write as well as they can act. Richard Mansfield has as much literary ability as he has dramatic, and could easily make his way through the world with his pen.

Joseph Jefferson has demonstrated how well he can write. Fanny Davenport is exceedingly clever with the pen; only a few days ago I was convinced of this while reading a manuscript by her soon to be printed. Georgia Cayvan wields the pen gracefully, and the little she has written has been very successful. Mme. Janauschek is a master of diction, and her contemporary, Ristori, is the same.

Francis Wilson writes so well that it seems a pity that he refuses all the inducements which come to him. Mrs. Kendall's book of "Dramatic Impressions" has shown the literary ability she possesses. Edward Sothern might easily turn from the stage to literature if he so chose. Emma Sheridan, of the Boston Museum company, writes a great deal, and readily sells everything. Maggie Mitchell has written a number of things, but never permitted their publication.

Sara Bernhardt has recently finished a Christmas story, to be published this coming Yuledide. Wilson Barrett often takes up the pen. Modjeska has often shown her literary ability, and few women are more assiduous readers. Clara Morris has written only a stray article here and there, but even in these she has demonstrated her gift with the pen.

But actors are busy people, and it is rare that they find time to write a story or drop into poetry.

Hard on Comedies.

Outside of New York this has been so far one of the worst seasons known for comedy shows. Of the hundreds of farce-comedy companies that started out bravely in August or September but very few remain in the field and an immense number of people are looking for employment on the variety stage to which they belong.

There have been altogether too many companies of all kinds on the road this year and, there have been too many irresponsible managers. In every town of 12,000 inhabitants there have been theaters trying to play five nights in the week instead of two.

In short, we have had thus far too much of everything bad and too little of what is good. The same thing has been noticed in New York, where a few good entertainments have monopolized the attention of the public and left the third-rate shows to go to the wall.

Two Orphans.

Kate Claxton with her company of distinguished players will be here Monday, in her revival of the Two Orphans, which created a postive furore during the run in New York. With its many attractive features, elaborate scenery and accessories, it will without doubt fill Wheeler's opera house from pit to dome. It would be a difficult matter to find a more thoroughly popular artist than Kate Claxton.

Her excellent rendition of Louise, and the world-wide success she has achieved, have been a source of delight to her many thousand admirers. Claxton has never appeared in a part so well adapted to her peculiar style as in the role of Louise, which gives her full scope for the display of genuine pathos.

Wilbur Opera Company.

The popular Wilbur Opera company will begin a week's engagement at the People's next Monday. The repertoire for the week is as follows:

Monday evening, Fanchette; Tuesday matinee, Fanchette; Tuesday evening, Falka; Wednesday evening, Jolly Perfumer; Thursday matinee, Falka; Thursday evening, Dorothy; Friday evening, Princess To-To; Saturday matinee, Dorothy; Saturday evening, Fanchette.

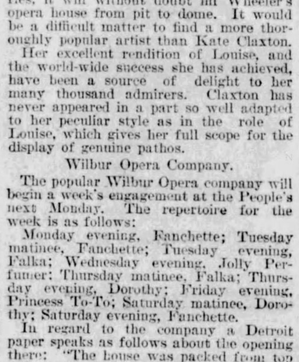
In regard to the company a Detroit paper speaks as follows about the opening there: "The house was packed from top to bottom and the audience will have occasion to remember last night's performance as the most enjoyable they have witnessed in the opera line at Whitney's. The grand march showed careful drill, and the evolutions of the young ladies, all pretty, young and of a mould that far excels the feminity constituting the average chorus, highly commended.

The title role in the hands of Susie Kirwin showed study and careful attention to those little blandishments that make a prima donna popular with her audience. Wands by Dorothy Morton, in love with Fritz, who is made commander-in-chief of the duchess' armies was sung with particular zest. Miss Morton having a voice that entitles her to credit above the rest of the company. The tenor J. E. Conly, as Fritz, was sweet, though not strong. The efforts of the company were liberally applauded by the audience.

Modjeska.

One of the theatrical events of the present season will be the coming engagement of Modjeska at the Wheeler opera house next Wednesday evening. Helna Modjeska is to-day one of the greatest living actresses and exponents of the drama. She is full of gayety and her womanly not riotous but well controlled manner is winning for her warm admirers in this country as she has in Poland. "The proof of the pudding is the eating of it," is an old and homely proverb, but nevertheless true.

It is now two years since Madame



Modjeska has been seen at the head of her own company. Last year she was starring in Europe and the season before she was a member of the great Booth-Modjeska organization, but ever since the opening of the present season, wherever she has played, the public have awarded her the warmest of welcomes.

Her company this season is composed entirely of players of reputation and ability. Her leading man is a young Englishman, Mr. Thalberg, who has been a great London favorite, and who is a very finished actor. The balance of the company is exceptionally strong. Modjeska will present Schiller's great historical drama, Mary Stuart.

Salvini.

Much interest is being manifested in the engagement of the brilliant young actor, Alexander Salvini, at the Wheeler opera house, Friday and Saturday, January 29 and 30, at which time he will be seen in "Don Caeser" and "Three Guardsmen," two of the most charming plays of the romantic school.

The American stage of to-day—and Mr. Salvini is an American by adoption—does not, perhaps, present another actor who has the qualifications of the romantic actor that has this handsome youth. In "Don Caeser de Bazan" and "The Three Guardsmen" he offers two popular dramas that call into requisition those peculiar charms which fit so well the characters of the Spanish Grandee and light-hearted, dashing, fiery musketeer, D'Astagnan.

Mr. Salvini begins his tour of the world in June, under the direction of Mr.

W. M. Wilkison. After the engagement in this city, Mr. Salvini begins a week's engagement in Cincinnati, after which he plays for a week in Washington, Philadelphia, Louisville, St. Louis, Chicago and Brooklyn, closing his successful season with a run in New York.

General Dramatic Notes.

My Jack has been playing to a good week's business at the People's this week. The last performance will be given this evening.

Daniel Frohman produced a new pastoral drama by Robert Buchanan, called Squire Kate, at the Lyceum theater Monday night.

The Chicago Dramatic News, conducted by Leander Richardson, is a new arrival among the journals devoted to the stage. The first number is bright and newsy and gives much promise.

Henry A. Covell, for many years connected with the New York Clipper and Dramatic News, has assumed control of the Globe Amusement Association of America, with offices in New York, Paris and London.

Several members of the Wilbur opera company, which will be at the People's next week, are personally acquainted in this city and numerous projects are on foot to make their engagement in this city enjoyable.

By one of those queer freaks of the combination system of theatricals, Louis James left McVickers theater Saturday night with the Jefferson company and his estranged wife, Marie Wainwright, took possession of the house on Monday.

Loie Fuller, the soubrette, has caused the arrest of Wm. B. Hayes, a lawyer, on the charge of bigamy. Loie claims to be the wife of Mr. Hayes, who recently married another. Mr. Hayes is the nephew of ex-President Hayes.

Another sluggers' combination is about to be worked on a long-suffering community, under the title of Thompson's Congress of Celebrities, with "Mr. Charles Mitchell, of London, England, and Mr. Frank P. Slavin, of Australia," at the head of the list.

The Actors' Fund benefit at the Broadway theater, New York, Tuesday afternoon, was a brilliant success in every respect. The theater was crowded to the doors, and the amount netted to the fund reached $3,300. The entertainment was one of unusual excellence, and among the audience were many noted professionals and managers.

The story of the new play called The Power of the Press is that of two men who are led astray by drink and evil companions. One of them is unjustly sentenced for manslaughter and when he is released from prison he is shunned by society. He is at last righted through the power of the press—an influential newspaper takes hold of the hero's case, brings to light new facts, and succeeds not only in proving the man's innocence, but in obtaining an official recognition of it from the governor.

MR. C. P. DOOLITTLE'S OPINION.

Oberlin, O., Jan. 19, 1892.

The Aeolian Co.:

Gentlemen: When my attention was first called to your instruments, I looked upon them as another addition to the long list of machine music-makers; but a year's acquaintance with and practical use of one of them has quite changed my opinion, and there are several reasons why I consider the Aeolian a valuable addition to the list of musical instruments. I use one constantly in some of my classes, in illustrating analyses of Beethoven's Sonatas and symphonies, and in lectures upon Wagner's operas I find it an invaluable aid.

As an educator, it should be in many of the homes in the country. Familiarity may breed contempt for some things in this life, but this is certainly not true of the best things in music, and I do not know that I could recommend a better means, under ordinary circumstances, of increasing one's desire for the best, than an Aeolian with a good selection from your long catalogue of music.

Respectfully yours,
C. P. DOOLITTLE,
Teacher of Theory and History, Oberlin Conservatory of Music.

THE WAY TO GO.

You have seen California frequently mentioned in newspapers and magazines. Perhaps a friend has been there and writes enthusiastic letters back home about the climate and the fruits. It makes you anxious to see the country for yourself.

The time to go is in the fall and winter. Then work here is least pressing and California climate is most pleasing. The way to go is via Santa Fe route, on one of that line's popular, personally-conducted parties, leaving Chicago every Saturday evening and leaving Kansas City every Sunday morning.

Special agents and porters in attendance. Pullman tourist sleepers are used, furnished with bedding, mattresses, toilet articles, etc. Second-class tickets honored. Write to Geo. E. Gilman, Michigan Passenger Agent Santa Fe route, for folder describing these excursions.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, Death for the first time has entered Mark A. Burnett Council and has taken from us our esteemed friend, Adam W. Ball, the first ex-president of this council; and,

Whereas, Friend Ball, from the organization of the council until his last illness, was one of the hardest workers for its success, and to his efforts we owe so much of our present prosperous condition; and,

Whereas, His genial, kindly nature, combined with sterling integrity and uprightness of character endeared him to all and made him one of the most valued members of the council; now that he has gone from us it is fitting that the Council express its deep sorrow and sense of loss; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the death of Friend Adam W. Ball, Mark A. Burnett Council, No. 490, National Union, has lost a friend whose taking away will be remembered in sorrow while the Council shall last.

"Tired he sleeps and life's poor play is o'er."

Resolved, That the charter of the Council be draped in black for thirty days; that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this meeting and that a copy of the same be sent to the family of our deceased friend with assurance of our sympathy in this their great affliction.

SAVED FROM DEATH

The Remarkable Experience of Frank Herman, of the Robison Electric Lines.

Left to Die by Eight Physicians—After Three Years' Suffering He is Speedily and Permanently Restored to Health.

Mr. Frank Herman, of 622 John street, furnishes one of the most wonderful instances of an almost miraculous recovery ever recorded by the Toledo press. The reporter having obtained an inkling of the case, set about getting the facts as related in Mr. Herman's remarkable experience. "Frank," as his numerous friends like to call him, was in the employ of R. G. Bacon & Co., on Monroe street, for several years. During the performance of his duty there, as elsewhere, Mr. Herman sustained his usual good reputation for industry, intelligence, integrity and truthfulness, so that our readers are certain to get only the exact facts in the recital of his sickness and recovery.

"For three years," he said, "I was a great sufferer. My sickness first began as the result of an awful hard cold, which finally affected my bronchial tubes and lungs. Then my stomach, which had been diseased, gave out completely, and I failed very fast. Finally a most dangerous form of rheumatism attacked me, causing all my joints to swell and affecting my heart. During the three years of my sickness I employed eight Toledo physicians, besides being treated by several at Columbus and Mt. Clemens. None of the doctors helped me any, and so they left me to die. My family had also lost hope of my living, as they admitted afterward. Well, just about the time I felt like dropping into the grave, a new and very scientific treatment was reported to us. It consisted of the inhalation of medicated gases for the throat and lungs. Then there were diet charts of what each patient could eat and drink, and specific stomach remedies to act in harmony with the food, and I don't know what all else. But anyhow it seemed to be my last chance, so I started in with the treatment.

"It was last February, continued Mr. Herman, when I commenced with this new scientific medical treatment, and in three months time I was a well man. I have since worked right along and am now conductor, as you see, on the Robison electric lines, working about twelve hours a day." After a short pause Mr. Herman said, in answer to a question by the reporter, "Oh, yes, if it will do anybody any good you can use my name in the papers. I am never afraid to sign what I say. If you are going to write this up," continued Herman, with an expression of tender gratitude, "don't neglect to say that my life was saved by Dr. Kalkhoff, the European specialist, who gave me the new scientific treatments I spoke about a short time ago. Some sick people, suffering as I did, seeing his name, may go themselves to his crowded offices, on Summit street, between Oak and Orange, and regain their health as I did. It will soon be a year now since I was completely restored to health, and there are hundreds of others whom the doctor has cured of terrible diseases, although he never uses their names unless privately by permission. Of course if a person wants to speak through the papers for the good of humanity, it's all right, but the doctor's way is to cure his patients, then they all become living testimonials."

A PRIZE MOTHER-IN-LAW.

The young lady remarked: "That gentleman's mother, is my mother's mother-in-law." What relation was the young lady to the gentleman? The Queen will give either a Mason & Risch or Steinway fine toned upright piano to the first person answering the above problem correctly. An elegant gold watch for the second correct answer; a China dinner set for the third correct answer; an elegant silk dress pattern for the fourth correct answer, and many other valuable prizes, all of which will be announced in the January issue of The Queen. Valuable special prizes will be given for the first correct answers from each state. As the object of offering these prizes is to attract attention to our popular family magazine in the U. S., each person answering must enclose six U. S. two-cent stamps for sample number containing full particulars. The Queen is the most successful publication in Canada. By sending to-day you may secure a handsome prize. Address The Canadian Queen, Toronto, Canada.

IT WON'T COST YOU A CENT TO VERIFY OUR STATEMENTS!

ONE THIRD OFF

TO THOSE of our readers who are of a sceptical turn of mind, and have no faith in our promises to save them many dollars on a purchase, we say,

COME AND LOOK!

MANY OF YOUR ACQUAINTANCES HAVE ALREADY BEEN CONVINCED OF THE GENUINENESS OF OUR LIBERAL OFFER AND HAVE BOUGHT AN OVERCOAT OR SUIT TO THEIR ENTIRE SATISFACTION.

DON'T STAND IN YOUR OWN LIGHT ANY LONGER, BUT COME, LOOK, AND BE CONVINCED THAT WHEN YOU SEE IT IN OUR AD. IT'S SO.

THE clean and enviable record we made last year with our Great One-Third Off Sale, served to strengthen the faith our old patrons had always placed in what we say, so that when we again announced a similar sale, the people flocked to our store at once. And why not, with such a powerful attraction as these reductions.

REMEMBER! THIS MEANS ONE-THIRD OFF REGULAR PRICES AND AS OUR REGULAR PRICES ARE ALWAYS THE LOWEST, IT MEANS YOU CAN BUY THE GOODS FOR LESS THAN ACTUAL COST.

YOU ASK: "How can you possibly sell goods at such prices, pay expenses, and still exist?" This is an easy one. In the first place, our regular busy season (a very lively and satisfactory one), is past. All those who were forced by necessity to buy, have bought, so if we merely took things easy and made no effort to force our sales, we would have to carry thousands of dollars worth of winter goods over to next season. This we cannot do and lay claim to being live merchants, so we get the cash out of our goods, invest it in new spring goods, make our profits on them, and are then in a position to buy the newest things in next winter's styles. By pursuing this course we unload our present stock, get the use of our money, and have no old stock to pass off as new next season.
